FORTY-THIRD YEAR. LINCOLN, NEBRASKA, MONDAY, JANUARY 12, 1925. TWO CENTS.

YOUNG BOY SLAYER

FIGHT TO SAVE BOY MURDERER

POTTSVILLE, Va., Jan. 12. — Attorneys for William Cavalier, fourteen-year-old slayer of his aged grandmother, today began a new battle to save the youth from the electric chair.

Young Cavalier was unperturbed yesterday when the jury returned a verdict carrying with it the death penalty.

Sentence was deferred by Judge Koch when the defendant's attorneys moved for a new trial. If the county court overrules this motion, it is likely an appeal will be carried to a higher tribunal.

APPROVE OF SELECTIONS

The legislature in joint session Monday afternoon approved of the appointments for code secretaries made by Governor McMullen.

Not a dissenting vote was recorded on any appointment.

Those confirmed were:

Finance—D. S. Dalbey, Beatrice.
Trade and commerce—Kirk Griggs, Hastings.
Agriculture—H. J. McLaughlin.
Public works—Roy Cochran.
Labor—Frank A. Kennedy.
Welfare—Lincoln Frost.

Senator Reed, who had been quoted as opposing the confirmation of Roy Cochran, made a statement. He said he had opposed Mr. Cochran because that official two years ago had refused to appear before the senate committee. Recently he had talked with Mr. Cochran and Mr. Cochran had made it plain to him that while he had refused he had done so on orders from the executive department of the state.

The senate later confirmed the appointment of T. E. Williams of Aurora, state tax commissioner, by a vote of 24 for and 9 absent.

ADDS TO FARMERS' LOAD

Borah Says Failure of Europe to Pay War Debts Strikes U. S. Agriculture.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—Failure of foreign nations to pay their war debts to the United States only adds further burdens upon the back of the American farmer, Chairman Borah, of the senate foreign relations committee, told the senate today in his first pronouncement on foreign affairs since he became chairman.

The greatest burden upon the farmer now is taxation, while the cost of the government is steadily mounting, Borah said. He predicted that if the present taxation increases continue they will mean the destruction of American agriculture.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The United States government has accepted the tentative agreement between its representative, Col. James A. Logan and Winston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer, in which the latter accepted the American compromise for collecting United States war claims out of German reparations and under a deferred payment plan.

Formal agreement on this basis is expected at the plenary session of the Paris financial conference tomorrow.

LATE MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12—Grain futures closed sharply higher on the board of trade today with May wheat and May and July rye going into new high ground for the season.

Buying in May wheat was mostly by local professionals in response to continued reports of good domestic milling demand and small scattered sales abroad. Rye's jump into new high ground was due to heavy export business

Corn borrowed strength from wheat. Cash premiums were lower. General trade was restricted.

Oats were up a fraction with other grains without distinction.

Higher grains and hogs, strengthened the provisions list.

REDS ARRESTED BY FASCISTI

ROME, Jan. 12.—Thirty-three "reds" were arrested today when fascisti police raided a clandestine meeting of communists in an old garage in a quiet corner of Rome.

The police, continuing repressive measures and house to house search for the government's political opponents, also seized a red flag which had been hung out over the corso Victor Immanuel inscribed:

"Viva Anarchy."

The chamber of deputies resumed its session without excitement and with little enthusiasm manifest.

Vacant benches marked places where members of the "Aventine" opposition who resolved to abstain from parliament, ordinarily would have been.

SHUMWAY DENIES STORY

Head of Department of Agriculture Tells of Bovine Tuberculosis Work Under Bryan.

Secretary Grant Shumway of the department of agriculture said Monday:

"The story of Governor Bryan and the operation of the bovine tuberculosis eradication law which appeared Saturday evening in the State Journal is erroneous. Why will one tell such a story when the facts are so easily obtainable?

"Eighty-five per cent of the appropriation was confined to area work and every area that has fully qualified under the law is complete or under way.

"The federal government, owing to the foot and mouth epidemic in California and Texas, was unable to supply men to match state men to any greater exten than that which they did supply and that held us from any more expeditious work. However, in fourteen months there was accomplished 75 per cent as much work as there was in the twenty-four months preceding biennium.

"The items of labor and expense have been reduced to approximately 60 per cent of the cost per head as under the former administration.

"A report issued by the United States bureau of animal industry of itself is a refutation of the editorial.

"As soon as the law which was ambiguous, was effective, and interpreted by the attorney general, Governor Bryan directed that work proceed wherever the legal conditions were met, and such has been done."

GOVERNOR MEETS AIDS

Appoints Miss Gertrude Mills of Lincoln to Be Stenographer in Executive Office.

Governor McMullen has appointed Miss Gertrude Mills of Lincoln stenographer in the executive office. She was formerly stenographer in the attorney general's office and for the past two years in the office of Judge Letton of the supreme court. She takes the place held by Miss Kirby under the Bryan administration.

J. C. Jenkins of Neligh, chief game warden, has announced that hereafter game and hunting licenses will be sold only by county clerks and state banks. This does not apply to Omaha and Lincoln, where others may be authorized to distribute licenses. This change is announced because many persons in the past who have been authorized to sell licenses have been slow or delinquent in paying the money to the state.

Frank A. Kennedy, who is the new secretary of labor, called on the governor Monday. He was accompanied by John Larson of Omaha, who formerly assisted him in compensation work and inspection of factories. He desires Mr. Larson's reappointment.

Governor McMullen will attend a meeting of the state board of pardons Tuesday and a meeting of the capitol commission Wednesday morning.

PAY OF ACTING GOVERNOR

Former Lieutenant Governor Asks Expenses for Ten Days' Service.

Former Lieutenant Governor Fred G. Johnson served ten days as acting governor during the Bryan administration. Under precedent the legislature will allow him $22 a day for his time. Mr. Johnson is not asking for pay but has filed a bill for his expenses in coming to the capito lto serve as acting goveronr. He has included in this account his trip to Omaha to meet the Harding funeral train when Governor Bryan was out of the state, or had not yet returned to the capitol. The total expense account is $39.84 for the ten days. Auditor Marsh said he might allow this claim upon the maintenance fund of the governor's office.

HOAG, Neb., Jan 12—A new station has been placed here by the Burlington railway replacing the depot destroyed by fire December 27. The new station is modeled out of box car bodies placed on the site of the old station, and is fashioned to serve as a depot as well as a home for the railway's representative here, Mrs. Gertrude Mudrow who lost practically all her household effects in the fire that burned the depot.

SPECULATE ON HUGHES' ACTION

LONDON, Jan. 12.—Ignorant of the political significance of Secretary of State Hughes' resignation, British government circles, as well as the public, are wondering what will be the effect of the succession of Ambassador Frank B. Kellogg to the head of the state department.

Britishers know Hughes largely as an institution, while they are familiar with Kellogg a a somewhat elusive personality. They are speculating interestedly on what the anticipated triumvirate of Coolidge, Kellogg and Borah will mean to Europe.

Naturally, they are hoping that there will be close Anglo-American friendship which is the basis of British foreign policy; secondly they see a possibility of increased American participation in European affairs, in which Great Britain reluctantly is forced to mix intimately.

Ambassador Kellogg is popular here, but the contrast of his unobtrusiveness with Col. George Harvey's forcefulness and John Davis' magnetism has left the present envoy somewhat in the background.

Kellogg is regarded as a shrewd observer and recalling his numerous speeches in favor of arbitration, the British are hoping his succession will mean that the United States will join the world court

It is likely that first outcome of the change will be private British "feelers" regarding the attitude of the United States towards Russia. Any move of the American government towards recognition of Russia would probably mean immediate resumption of Anglo-Russian treaty negotiations. The British would prefer mutual conferences with the United States regarding Russia, such a were arranged with France and Italy during the recent trip to the continent of Austin Chamberlain, foreign secretary.

HOUGHTON IS LIKELY MAN

Ambassador to Germany Probably to Be Appointed Envoy to Great Britain.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Alanson B. Houghton, ambassador to Germany, probably will be appointed ambassador to Great Britain, succeeding Frank B. Kellogg, in the very near future, it was learned authoritatively here today.

Houghton was booked to receive the choice by President Coolidge as to whether he will remain at Berlin or move to London, and probably will choose the important post.

If the transfer is made, either Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois or Henry P. Fitcher, ambassador to Belgium, will fill the Berlin vacancy. McCormick's term as senator ends on March 4. Fletcher is a "career man" in the diplomatic corps.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Prospects for disposition of Muscle Shoals legislation in the senate before tonight were enhanced when Senator Norris, chief opponent of the Underwood bill, announced he would make an effort to force a vote before adjournment is taken today.

Objections by Norris previously have prevented a vote.

The day's debate was opened by Senator McKellar, Tennessee, democrat, who attacked the Underwood bill. McKellar contended leasing of the shoals to private interests would jeopardize the availability of the plant for nitrate manufacture in time of war.

FORTY-THIRD YEAR. LINCOLN, NEBRASKA, MONDAY, JANUARY 12, 1925. TWO CENTS.

GOVERNOR DAVIS ARRESTED

COOLIDGE TO GUIDE STAND

Will Take Active Control of Foreign Policy.

KELLOGG NEW STATE HEAD

New Secretary to Execute President's Theories.

Will Drive Further Toward International Disarmament and World Peace With Resignation of Hughes.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Ambassador Frank B. Kellogg's statement following announcement that he will succeed Secretary of State Hughes on March 4 was brief. The envoy said:

"Of course, I deeply appreciate the great honor which President Coolidge has conferred upon me in offering me this post and the confidence he reposes in me. I also recognize the great responsibility of the position, especially in view of the fact that I follow that great lawyer and statesman, Secretary Hughes."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—With the announced resignation of Secretary of State Hughes, President Coolidge prepared today to take over active control of American foreign policy and drive toward further international disarmament and world peace.

While Hughes withdrawal on March 4, after brilliant achievements is regretted by the president, it gives Mr. Coolidge an opportunity to direct foreign affairs which he believes should be the chief concern of the next administration, now that domestic issues are in hand.

In Frank Kellogg, new ambassador, he has chosen as his new aide of the state department, a man who will execute Coolidge's policies and dispel possible senate opposition.

The other members of the triumvirate whom the president has picked with himself and Kellogg to conduct foreign affairs is William E. Borah, chairman of the important senate foreign relations committee.

It is vitally necessary to Mr. Coolidge as a party leader that the new secretary of state be able to work with Borah. Since last summer when the president wanted Borah as his campaign running mate, the senator has been slated as the progressive spokesman in the consolidated and stronger Coolidge republican party.

With Hughes at the state department pulling in one direction and Borah pulling in the opposite direction for Russian recognition and a hands off policy in the Caribbean. Mr. Coolidge was faced with an apparently insoluble party problem. The solution came in the unsought resignation of Hughes.

To Meet Half Way

Kellogg is expected to meet Borah half way. As a senator he voted for Borah's proposal to authorize President Harding to call an arms conference. On the other hand he voted to ratify the treaty of Versailles, which Borah opposed. On Russia and Caribbean policy his position is not clearly defined in the records.

Kellogg's practical experience as a diplomat in London and his natural conservative tendencies will balance the more "liberal" policies of Borah, leaving to the president the ultimate decisions which have hitherto been almost solely in Hughes hands.

The president is taking over control at a time of natural transition in American foreign affairs when many of Hughes' policies have culminated and a fresh situation is developing. Some of the problems follow:

Hughes made his contribution in the Washington arms conference. Disputes over gun elevation and other treaty provision and competition in aircraft and cruisers however, create the need for another conference and greater limitation of armament.

Long negotiations for funding the French debt have finally resulted in a deadlock and another drive is on to bring the United States into an interallied conference to pool and reduce debts.

With American marines withdrawn from Honduras and the dominican republic and presumably soon to be withdrawn from Nicaragua and Haiti and cordial relations re-established with Mexico a new chapter in Latin-American relations is beginning.

Civil War Situation

Chinese civil war and Japanese immigration exclusion have created a fresh situation in our far eastern relations.

Growing American Russian trade continued stability of the soviet government and its recognition by European nations present in new form the question of [illegible] American recognition. The Dawes plan is leading this country [illegible] into further participation in European affairs posing the question "how far?"

LAW MAKES FREE

Under the new state law, known as the "Enoch Arden" act, Mrs. Marie Neumann Andrews of New York City has won marriage annulment from Bert B. Andrews, whom she married in May, 1916. Three months later he disappeared, writing her that he was forced to flee by threats of prison.

MUST STAND AT OPENING

JUDGE WHEELER USES GAVEL TO START PROCEEDINGS.

Audience, Jurymen and Litigants Must Now Rise to Their Feet as Trial Judge Enters Room.

Judge Wheeler, who took office on the district bench Thursday, opened court and began the trial of his first case Monday with a formality that has been foreign to the Nebraska courts since their beginning.

At 10:30 a. m. Bailiff Lang entered the room, rapped thrice with a gavel and requested all present to rise to their feet. Judge Wheeler then walked slowly from his private office to the bench taking the gavel from the bailiff's hands as he passed.

When the judge had gained the bench he remained standing while the bailiff cried, "The honorable judge of the third judicial district of Nebraska. All ye who have business with the court please draw nigh. The court is now in session." With the conclusion of this speech the judge let the gavel fall, the bailiff admonished those present to be seated, and the regular business at hand was begun.

The case beginning trial was that of the Lincoln Baseball Association against Albert R. Tearney, in which the plaintiffs seek to recover $2,000 for the services of Arthur Stokes and Everett Purdy which were lost to the association by the sale of the ball park to the Western league.

The plaintiffs claim that on January 10, 1924, at the time of the transfer of the park to the Western league, the defendant Tearney agreed to pay $1,000 apiece for the services of these players under contract to the plaintiffs for the coming season and that the agreement was never carried out.

SUES FOR DEATH OF HER HUSBAND

Ethel Rakestraw Begins Trial of $40,000 Action Against Power and Telephone Companies for Electrocution.

Ethel Rakestraw's $40,000 suit against the Nebraska Gas & Electric company, the village of Polk and the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph company, for the death of her husband, Polk manager for the telephone company who was electrocuted April 1, 1924, while making repairs on a phone in the city hall began trial before District Judge Broady Monday morning.

Mrs. Rakestraw in her petition claims that the defendant Nebraska Gas & Electric company placed wires charged with [illegible] volts electricity within five feet of the room of the city hall when the practice generally is to have them at least ten feet away from buildings.

She alleges that when her husband went to repair the telephone wire at the city hall in Polk and while he was engaged in making these repairs he came in contact with the high voltage wire and was killed. The claim against the telephone company, also a defendant, is subrogated. W. B. [illegible] represents the widow while the law firms Woods, Woods & [illegible] Hall [illegible] Williams and [illegible] ator Beebe Polk city attorney are conducting the defense.

AMERICA TO GET AWARD

WILL RECEIVE 52,000,000 MARKS ANNUALLY.

British Circles Announce Semi-Officially That United States to Share in the Dawes Payments.

PARIS, Jan 12.—The United States has been accorded 52,000,000 gold marks yearly out of the Dawes payments, beginning in 1926, according to an agreement reached here today, British circles announce semi-officially.

Official announcement is expected at tomorrow's plenary session of the finance conference.

President Coolidge rights to cash payments for the costs of our Rhine army were conceded by the powers and it is estimated it will take seventeen years of payments at this rate to exhaust the American claims.

Regarding her claim for war damages out of the payments to be made by Germany under the Dawes plan, the United States will receive two and one-fourth per cent of the annual payments during the entire period of operation of the plan. This proceedings is limited however to 45,000,000 gold marks annually.

If the British announcement is officially confirmed, it means that the allies, in the secret conferences that have been the rule of procedure for the past week, have arranged to meet the claims of the United States out of the amounts they expect to collect from Germany. Payments however, will be deferred considerably more than proposed originally by American representatives here.

RECOVERS CONSCIOUSNESS

Lystra Thomsen, Eight, Omaha, Recognizes Baby Sister, Then Lapses Back.

OMAHA, Jan 12.—Lystra Thomsen, eight-year-old school girl, unconscious since December 29 as a result of being struck bp an automobile, came out of her comatose condition Sunday eveing and recognized her baby sister.

Lystra's eyes opened slowly. Spying the baby, a smile spread over her face.

"Emily Margaret," she murmured, and sank back into a semi-unconsciousness.

She had been unconscouis 336 hours when this occurred, a record for children of her age, local physicians believe.

Physicians are now certain that the little girl will recover. Her left side, which was entirely paralyzed, is improving rapidly, they said.

Prayers for the little girl's recovery were said at many Omaha churches Sunday.

Today there were evidences that Lystra knew what was going on around her, but she has not spoken.

YOUTH MUTE AT HEARING

RINGER SILENT AS ARRAIGNED FOR MURDER.

Not Guilty Plea Is Offered at Hastings When Young Man Is Charged With Moore Slaying.

HASTINGS, Neb., Jan. 12.—Donald Ringer stood mute in district court this morning when he was arraigned on the charge of murdering Carl Moore, automobile salesman found dead in a plum thicket on November 1, near Roseland.

Moore had disappeared from Hastings, October 16 after leaving to demonstrate a car.

Ringer pleaded guilty to the charge of murder in county court. His counsel later moved to have the record of the plea expunged from the court proceedings. It was overruled by county court. The defense appealed.

The district court held that the proceedings in the lower court had been regular and sustained the latter's action in accepting the plea.

The defense then filed a plea of abatement setting forth that Ringer's actions and words had been dominated by the officers since he was taken on December 1 at Gulfport, Miss. This was also overruled and the state asked for his arraignment in district court.

Ringer stood silent, thereby forcing a plea of not guilty to be entered for him. His case will probably be heard during the next term of district court which opens on January 19.

STATE IS VISITED BY COLD WEATHER

Lower Temperatures General Thruout State, But Severest in Western Portion—Valentine Coldest Spot.

Lower temperatures in all parts of the state were reported Monday morning. In some sections the colder weather was accompanied by high winds and flurries of snow. The western part of the state was much colder than the eastern sections, according to reports.

The lowest temperature for Lincoln was reached at 8 o'clock Monday morning when the mercury indicated that it was 12 above.

The lowest temperature in the state Sunday night and Monday morning was reported from Valentine where the low mark was 12 below. It was 4 below at North Platte, 2 above at Sioux City, 12 above at Lincoln and 14 below at Omaha.

More cold weather was the prediction of the weather bureau. The temperature was dropping at 8 o'clock and the forecast indicated that they would continue to do so.

FRUIT TREE GIVEN BUMP

COMMITTEE PLUMS FALL INTO SEVERAL BASKETS.

House Democrats Say They Are as Well Pleased as Could Be Expected Under the Circumstances.

Chairman Gilmore of the house committee on committees, dropped the fruit from the legislative plum tree into the several waiting baskts Monday. Some tasted the fruit and found it to be ripe and sweet. Others detected a persimmon flavor. Members of the democratic minority said they got all they expected and that they were not foolish enough to expect much.

Members of the Lancaster delegation in both houses fared well. Miss Sarah T. Muir, only woman of the delegation, received four assignments; cities and towns, miscellaneous subjects, manufacturing and commerce and arrangement, phraseology and correlation. The other five Lancaster delegates received three plums each as follows:

Becker; agriculture, live stock and grazing, privileges and elections.

McMaster; cities and towns, corporations, judiciary.

Munn; insurance, telephone and telegraph, finance.

Harrington; revenue and taxation, roads and bridges, rules.

Egger; school lands and funds, state institutions, claims and deficiencies.

Two members of the Lancaster delegation are placed on cities and towns. The delegation has no representation on these committees: education, labor, medical societies, irrigation, fees and salaries, fish and game, railroads, accounts and expenditures, engrossed and enrolled bills.

Some Chairmanships

Committees, at least the more important of the twenty-nine, probably will meet immediately to perfect their organizations. A. H. Byrum is believed to be in line for chairmanship of the important judiciary committee. The only other member prominently mentioned being Densmore of Gage.

A close race is predicted for the chairmanship of roads and bridges. George Staats of Fremont, chairman of that committee forq the past two seasons, and E. Preston Bailey of Carleton, are mentioned. The advantage is said to favor Staats.

Assuming that the member from Dodge will land the chairmanship of roads and bridges, it is rumored that Bailey will fall heir to claims and deficiencies.

George Dyball of Omaha is said to be slated again to hold the whip hand in the committee on cities and towns.

Representative Miner of Buffalo is given the inside track for the chairmanship of the committee on education.

Essam of Gage is mentioned as the likely choice as chairman of the finance committee tho James A. Rodman, veteran legislator from Kimball county but now a resident of Omaha, also is mentioned.

Representative Gilmore may head state institutions. Miss Muir may draw manufacturing and commerce. Monte Munn may get telephone and telegraph leadership. If a democrat is honored, such honor, it is said, may fall to Mrs. Gillespie, only woman minority member. The place she asked was on agriculture. These however, are merely guesses shot at random by idle members Monday morning.

Representative Barbour of Scottsbluff is listed as a safe bet for chairman of the irrigation group. Rodman is said to be in line for arrangement and phraseology, an important committee. Two years ago Mason Wheeler, now judge of the district court of Lancaster county, was employed to do much

"NEVER HAD A CHANCE"

MATSON BRAND SSLAYER'S STATEMENT A FALSEHOOD.

County Attorney Writes Burning Answer to Killer Who Excuses His Crime by Saying He Was Unfortunate.

Donald Ringer, confessed slayer of Carl Moore, issued the statement from his cell in the Hastings' jail that he never had a chance.

"What I learned, I learned myself, nobody ever learned me nothin'," said the young killer while awaiting sentence.

County Attorney Matson read the statement and wrote the following note in answer to the boy who he claims indulged in a cowardly lie.

Mr. Matson writes:

"I've never had a chance!"

This is the lying, whining wail of a young desperado, caught after a chase of thousands of miles, and after a plea of guilty at a preliminary hearing at Hastings, Neb, to a charge of murder, as heartless and brutal a murder as ever disgraced the criminal annals of the state.

Donald Ringer, nineteen years old, born and reared in Nebraska and "never had a chance!" Its mere assertion is proof of its falsity, but sad to say, it will catch the fancy of the super-sentimentalist and the superficial thinker. It's an effort to blame organized society for his criminal career. But Nebraska is not to blame, and I for one, resent the imputation.

Donald Ringer was not reared in the tenaments of a city, or in the workshops or sweatshops of the nation, or in the mines of north, south, east or west, but in the

STONE NOMINATION IS AGAIN HELD UP

Senate Judiciary Committee to Further Study the Charges of "Unprofessional Conduct."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Nomination of Attorney General Stone to be supreme court justice, was again held up by the senate judiciary committee today for further study of charges by Col. James A. Owenby, of Boulder, Col., that Stone had been guilty of "unprofessional conduct."

Owenby told the committee that Stone had committed an unethical act as attorney for J. P. Morgan and company in a suit which Owenby had brought against the company.

The committee reported the nomination of Charles B. Warren as attorney general replacing Stone to a sub-committee for investigation.

Despite the unusual delay, members of the committee believed the nomination ultimately would be reported favorably.

"There is no reason for delay," Chairman Sterling said. "We will again take up the matter when we meet Thursday."

The committee was in session more than an hour.

WARRANT SERVED ON KANSAS EXECUTIVE

First Time In History of State For Governor To Be Arrested.

JUST BEFORE LEAVING OFFICE

Action Result of Alleged Expose of Saturday.

SON ALSO SIGNS BONDS

Later Makes Speech at Inaugural Ceremonies for Paulen and Has Part in Reception for New Chief.

TOPEKA, Kas., Jan. 12.—For the first time in the history of the state, a governor of Kansas was placed under arrest here today.

Warrants charging soliciting and accepting a bribe were served upon Governor Jonathan M. Davis, and his son, Russell Davis, in connection with acceptance by the latter of $1,250 from Fred Pollman, paroled convict, for a pardon for Pollman.

The governor and his son, an hour before the former was to relinquish his office to Ben S. Paulen the new state executive appeared at the court-house to sign bonds of $1,000 each.

Neither displayed the slightest bit of emotion as they stood by the clerk's desk waiting to sign the papers which had been prepared.

Accompanying the governor were Col. A. H. Harvey and the latter's two sons, who will represent the governor and his son.

Several prominent democrats were also present. Governor Davis talked in low tones with several of these and ignored other bystanders who had come to the court house to see their governor placed under arrest.

After signing the bonds Governor Davis left the building and went back to the state house to prepare for the inaugural ceremony at noon. Russell Davis accompanied his father.

The charges against the governor which resulted in his arrest today grew out of the expose here Friday when Russell Davis met Pollman in the latter's room in a local hotel and negotiated with Pollman to secure the latter's pardon provided $1,250 was forthcoming.

Concealed in an adjoining room were newspaper men and a shorthand reporter. The latter took down the conversation between Young Davis and Pollman, who was a party to the plot to catch the governor's son.

Young Davis was confronted by the newspaper men and forced to hand over to them the marked money with which Pollman purchased his pardon. The young man denied allegations that his father knew of the deal. The former governor, in a statement issued Saturday, declared he had no knowledge of his son's transaction and added that he had already granted Pollman's pardon.

The announcement that the governor and his son had been arrested while not unexpected, came as a shock to the thousands gathered here for inaugural ceremonies at noon.

It was thought that perhaps the governor would be spared the humiliation of being arrested while still in office inasmuch as he was to step out only an hour after the warrant was served.

News of the arrests spread rapidly and the ceremony of changing governors was overshadowed by the action of the county attorney.

An air of nervous tension pervaded the crowded auditorium where Governor Davis was to appear at noon and make his outgoing address and to introduce his successor.

There was considerable speculation as to whether the governor would make any reference in his address to the charges brought against him.

It was the first time in the state's history that a governor left office under such a cloud.

C. B. Griffiths, attorney general of the state, in a statement late yesterday, declared that both receivers and givers of bribes in Kansas would be prosecuted. He said that men of high standing in their communities and influence in

BILLS JUMP OUT OF BOX

COMMITTEES URGED TO MAKE READY TO HANDLE THEM.

Representative Bailey's Gas Tax Bill Apportions Revenue in Accordance to State Highway Mileage.

Fourteen bills were introduced in the house at the afternoon session by 2:15.

The first showing of bills jumped from the house hopper Monday afternoon. Here are the first six to hit the trail:

H. R. 1, by Bock, changing weight of maximum car shipments of mixed stock.

H. R. 2, by Bailey, gas tax bill.

H. R. 3, by Gilmore, repealing intangible tax feature of revenue law.

H. R. 4, by Densmore, pertaining to change of venue in justice courts.

H. R. 5, by Densmore, relating to schools.

H. R. 6, by Densmore, relating to schools.

This was the sum total ready for the first hurdle shortly before 2 o'clock when the house convened.

Representative Bailey's measure placing a two cent per gallon tax on gasoline, to be collected at point of distribution, is copied after the Colorado law which, according to the introducer, is the most economically administered of all gas tax laws.

The measure provides exemption for gasoline used for purposes other than to propel motor vehicles on the road. Mr. Bailey is not, however, strong for the exemption feature and if this is eliminated in committee, he will not object. He is a farmer of Thayer county and presumably it is the farmer who is most eager for exemptions. The objections raised by Representative Bailey to exemptions have to do with the red tape involved.

"The only way to handle exemptions," he said, "is for the purchaser to pay his two cents and

W. J. Taylor Writes to the Governor About Proposed Gasoline Tax Law

MERNA, Neb., Jan. 9, 1925.—Dear Governor McMullen: I wrote a check to our county treasurer this morning for the licenses for my auto and truck, and then remembered this contingency might arise. A gasoline tax and lowered license charges, without or possibly with emergency clauses. Then what?

I can't conceive of a law or course by tax collectors which would but result in either endless confusion or inequality and injustice or all three.

From the propaganda which has gone out over the state in favor of this tax (mainly from commercial clubs) from its adoption in so many other states and from your statement, in your message of its popularity, the public is warranted in expecting the surety of its passage and the lowering of the license proportionately. For with the farmer, the average little farmer and the renter in as bad a shape as ever within the past four distressing years, it is inconceivable that this influence from the towns and cities can get by with any scheme which means the increasing of taxes.

When this thought came into my mind I tore up that check to the county treasurer and am writing you.

I can't resist reminding you, tho I know that it is unnecessary that this existing law about license, is not like most laws which one is not warranted in treating laxly from expectation of anticipated changes. A compliance with the present law is made on January 1 and extends thru and for the entire year, during the major portion of which another and different one will be over us.

I am very much opposed to this proposed law because I am sure of its promotion by those whose purpose is to raise more money rather than a desire for a more equitable method of taxation. And also because its basic principle is the taxation of use instead of wealth. It is an ignoring of men's different abilities to pay; like the license tax, but a step farther and beyond. But this is foreign to the first purpose of this letter.

My thought was that maybe such proposed legislation could be [illegible] up or license collections slowed down, or both, or a statement from you or some one with authority of a solution of the question [illegible] question.

I am wishing you a very pleasant and successful administration. Very sincerely your friend

NEW POINTS ARE RAISED

MORSMAN JOINS IN ATTACK ON STATE BANK TAX.

Claims Constitutional Requirement of Uniformity of Classification Violated by Statute.

As a friend of the court and a person interested in the result E. M. Morsman, jr., Omaha attorney, filed Monday with the supreme court a brief in support of the attack made by the banks of the state, national, state and trust companies, against being assessed on the basis of 100 per cent value, as provided by the state law. This law was held invalid by the supreme court a few years ago because it contravened the federal law. The latter has since been amended, and the state is again seeking to enforce the 100 per cent valuation as a tax basis.

Mr. Morsman argues at length upon two points presented. One of these is that the state law, even if re-enacted, is void as to national banks because the tax sought to be levied is contrary to the new federal law. The other is that it is contrary to the constitution in that it lacks uniformity as to classes, as required by that instrument.

The purpose of the federal law was to provide that national banks should not be taxed any more than competitive investment business. He points out that millions of dollars loaned, in competition with the national banks, by broker, agents of eastern loan companies, automobile loan companies that discount paper with eastern banks, cattle loan companies and individuals, not to mention the vast amount of moneyed capital that its owners keep off the tax list. All of these are taxed under the state law, he says, at 25 per cent, and, therefore, national banks cannot be taxed in states for any more.

The claim that different classifications are made for the same forms of moneyed capital is based upon the showing that if capital is carried by an investment business it must, to meet the federal law demand, be taxed at 100 per cent, whereas if it is not so used it takes only 25 per cent.

POLICEMEN DENY CHARGES

Chicago Cops Jump Into Controversy by Declaring Morale Not at Low Ebb.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Chicago's 6,000 policemen jumped into the hot controversy over the crime situation here by adopting a resolution denying their morale was at a low ebb and voicing faith in their chief, Morgan A. Collins.

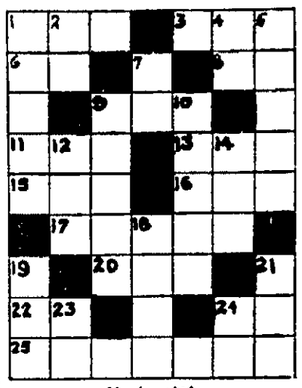

While 1,000 policemen, representing the entire policemen's benevolent association of 6,000 members were adopting the resolution at a mass meeting last night, criminals continued their depredations.

One man robbed the offices of a fashionable family hotel, escaping with several thousands in cash and jewelry but missing nearly $500,000 in valuables in the safety vault. A moron entered an apartment and attempted to attack two women. A grocer was probably fatally wounded in a robbery, while numerous robberies of minor character, and other crimes were reported from all parts of the city.

Mayor Dever and Chief of Police Collins are being attacked by the Chicago Crime Commission for alleged failure to curb crime here. The commission charges the morale of the police department is shattered. Collins and Dever hold the situation is not as bad as represented and charge the attacks to personal and political enemies.

TALK ABOUT REGULATION

LEGISLATORS MAY TAKE UP ELECTRIC LIGHT RATES.

Growth of Syndicate Control of Business in Nebraska Challenges Attention to the Situation.

Talk is heard among members of the legislature of the necessity of doing something to give the state control of the electric light companies of the state. So far it has not taken any definite form. The growth of syndicate control of the business is one phase of the matter touched upon. Half a dozen companies now practically control the manufacture of curren in the state. The cheapness with which they can supply this has resulted in a number of municipalities closing down their plants and buying from these syndicates.

Most of the companies holding title to the big plants in the state are controlled thru stock ownership by outside corporations that are in turn part of another syndicate. The most extreme case is that of the Ashland Mill, Power & Light company, just purchased by the Omaha & Lincoln Railway and Light company. The latter is owned by an Illinois holding company, which in turn is owned by another Illinois corporation, whose common stock is held by a Delaware corporation whose common stock is held by a Maine corporation owned by the Studebakers.

Instances like that at McCook are also cited as showing the necessity. A Chicago syndicate paid a third more than the plant there is worth, and frankly said it did so because of its earning power. It is not the only instance in the state.

So long as the distribution of current was a local proposition, the cities and towns have been allowed to control rates and service. Now that they have become, thru transmission lines that carry current for long distances without loss of voltage, and serve many outside the municipalities, a new question is presented.

IDENTIFY GIRL BY RADIO

Voice of "Charlotte," Found Dazed in Chicago, Recognized by Aunt.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan 12.—"Charlotte"—Chicago's girl of mystery who for two months was unable to remember any of the past events of her life—is back home here, her mind restored. She was found by radio.

The young woman is Charlotte Maguire, twenty-two, a former student at Washington university.

On the night of November 19 the young woman was found wandering in a dazed condition near a railroad station in Chicago. Doctors scientists and psychologists worked over her. It was a useless attempt as all she could remember was that "Charlotte" sounded like her name. Friday the young woman broadcast from the Edgewater Beach hotel in Chicago, hoping that some one might hear her voice and recognize her.

Mrs. George Griffiths, an aunt, was "listening in". She immediately recognized the voice as that of Charlotte.

So far the girl cannot remember anything happening between the time she started for school and the blank hours when she was found wandering about the streets of Chicago.

SAY YETTER CARELESS

Missouri Pacific, Sued for Death of Student, Declares It Was Not Responsible.

The crosing accident at Thirty-third and X streets in which Glen Yetter was killed, a year ago January 5, was due to Mr. Yetter's own negligence, the Missouri Pacific contends in its answer to the $25,000 damage suit filed shortly before the case went to trial in federal court. Mr. Yetter, who was then a student at Nebraska Wesleyan, is said to have had seven persons in his automobile, three of them in the front seat. The railroad declares there was a banjo or wig-wag signal in good working order at the crossing, and that the engineer gave the customary warnings by whistle and bell on approaching the crosing.

Mrs. Marie Yetter, administratrix for her son, charges the railroad with negligence, her petition stating that the train was traveling at a high rate of speed when it struck the car, that no warning was given, and that the driver could not have known a train was coming. Ed C. Fisher is conducting the plaintiff's case and Yale Holland of Omaha the railroad's

Your Problems

BY MARY GORDON

Dear Mary Gordon: I have been going with a man who is only thirty but has been divorced three times. Now he wants to marry me and swears we can get along, that the other women were extravagant, dirty housekeepers, triflers, money grabbers, etc. He says he really never loved any of them but was captured by their good looks and popularity.

My mother and father warned me not to go with him. I wasn't interested in him at first but now I want to marry him. But I am afraid and I wondered if you could give me any encouragement? I have met one of the wives, I just found out, last summer and she really seemed to be a lovely woman. She is the one he says was a dirty housekeeper. What can I do?—Cornered.

I would certainly hesitate a long time before marrying a man with a record of three divorces. Even one divorce would be too much.

You don't really believe that you would be his last and only wife, do you? It sounds as if he were out to compete with Nat Goodwin and "Kid" McCoy. What was it one of our writers in the column said, not long ago?" "Better a broken heart, single than married."

Even if it were but one divorce, I would urge you very strongly to consider a long, long time before accepting the role of second wife. When there is a divorce there is fault on both sides. After you have lived longer, you will find that true. I have heard of cruelly wronged wives and husbands, veritable martyrs in the matrimonial game, but I have never met any. There are always two sides to the divorce question, as all others.

My advice is, "Don't."

A Fisher of Men: I have forwarded your letter directly to the person for whom it was intended.

Dear Mary Gordon: Please tell me a remedy for and prevention of "hang-nails." Could you find and also give me the words to the piece which starts, "Two babies were born in the self same town, on the very self same day."—L. B. H.

A. Keep your fingernails in good condition by manicuring them. Carefully push back the cuticle and trim it. Apply cold cream to the bases of the nails at night.

Do any of the readers have a copy of the poem requested?

Dear Mary Gordon: 1. Would you please tell me where I could obtain readings for a declamatory contest. I am taking dramatic. 2. Is three years difference in a boy's and girl's ages too much difference? Thanking you very much I remain—A Constant Reader.

A. 1. Write to the State Library Commission, University Hall, University of Nebraska, Lincoln.
2. No.

Dear Mary Gordon: I am in my teens and I am going with a young man of about my own age. He does not seem to like to have a good time. Whenever we go to a party or anything he does not take any interest and acts as if he is half asleep and part of the time he does not even want to go to the parties and he does not want me to go.

What can I do to have him overcome all of this as I love him dearly?—Lulu Lou.

A. If a man doesn't like parties there is no way to force him to acquire the quality.

Better be warned: If you intend to marry him, you will probably be one of those unwilling, stay-at-home wives you read about.

For the Hostess.

The invigorating days of winter mark the return of the heavier dishes to the menu. Unless counterbalanced with sufficient acid flavor these concentrated foods, high in nutrients as they may be, fail to induce that satisfied, well-fed feeling which is the delight of good diners. A piquant salad adds the contrast necessary to give zest to the meal, and the diet is improved by their ash constituents, vitamins and roughage. Chilled ingredients, appetizing combination, attractive arrangement and appropriate dressing are the essentials of the good salad, the year round.

To Prepare Salad Greens

Salad greens should be separated, washed, and the leaves examined for dirt and parasites. A compact head of lettuce may be separated without injury by cutting out the core with a sharp knife and holding close up to the faucet, letting the cold water run thru it. Wilted salad greens may often be restored to their original freshness by allowing to stand several hours in ice water. Dry thoroughly by patting gently in a towel before attempting to use. The dressing will not adhere to wet leaves, but will settle to the bottom in a pool.

What Salads to Serve.

These suggestions are offered for the aid of the housewife in planning her menus for various occasions:

Formal Meal—Green salad with plain French dressing or a variation.

Informal Meal—Any salad with appropriate dressing.

Formal Luncheon—Green with French dressing; fruit with French mayonnaise or variation; or chicken, if no other meat is served.

Informal Luncheon—Any salad with appropriate dressing.

Suppers—Meat, fish, shellfish, fruit or any ingredients with appropriate dressing.

Do not repeat the salad ingredients in another art of the meal. Serve on decorated china which harmonizes with the colors of the salad.

ARREST GIRL ROD RIDERS.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Having "ridden the rods" of a west bound passenger train from Chatham, Margaret Turner and her sister, Gertrude, both of Grantham, N. H., were arrested here. The girls, who wore knickers, said "We did it just for fun."

A WARSHIP TO SHANGHAI

BRITISH VESSEL RUSHED FROM WEI HAI WIS.

Chi Hsieh Yuan Seizes Native City Sunday and Foreign Settlements Threatened by Chinese.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 12.—A British warship was rushed here from Wei Hai Wie today and strong contingents of police and volunteers were posted along the boundaries of the foreign settlements for protection against possible inroads of panicky Chinese following Chi Hsieh Yuan's seizure of the native city Sunday.

Almost without firing a shot, troops of the former Chi Li commander, surrounded the native barracks here, rounded up three divisions of Hu-Pep forces and effected a bloodless coup d'etat.

Meanwhile other of Chi's troops were defeating Anfu regulars in fighting about five mile s from Shanghai.

Immediately the coup became known, Americans and other foreigners took steps to guard the French and international settlements. They were none too soon, for within a few hours, Chinese refugees were streaming into the native city and trying to make their way to the foreign settlements.

Defeated Hu-Pep troops started looting the native quarter, terrorizing the Chinese inhabitants. Stray bullets spat into the French settlement. Several of them lodging in the bodies of Chinese. No foreigners were wounded.

The British authorities sent for the warship Carlisle, which is en route.

Chi Hsieh Yuan had been inactive and believed a refugee since the defeat of his ally, Wu Pei Fu, in the north. Chang Tso Lin, aided by the treachery of the Christian general, Feng Yu Hsiang, conquered Wu and took Peking just after Chi had beaten Lu Yung Hsiang's Chekiang troops before Shanghai.

Together with his new ally, Sun Chuan Fang, Chi is believed to be planning operations against Peking with Shanghai as a base.

Rail communications between Shanghai and the rest of China is interrupted.

There was intermittent firing in the streets of Shanghai thruout Sunday.

Finally several hundred Chinese soldiers broke into the foreign settlements and sought refuge, but were promptly disarmed and sent to a concentration camp.

French armies were ordered to land to protect French interests.

Was Martha Brown a Good Wife?

Martha Brown was a good wife. Wasn't she economical? Hadn't she stinted since the day of her marriage? Think of the way she had remade her hats and dresses. Consider the hours and days painting and repainting and patching furniture. Of course Martha Brown was a good wife. At least the neighbors said so. And Husband John said so. And for years Martha, too, had thought so.

But recently Martha Brown had a vision. After twenty years of thrifty, economical wedded life she wondered if she had been wise and right.

There was Mary Adams who had married at the same time and whose husband had had no more than John. Now, Mary lived in the big, handsome residence on the hill and drove about in her seven passenger sedan. And there was Alice White, living in the fashionable Apartment Hotel. Alice, too, had married a poor man.

And Martha pondered. She recalled how difficult it had been to teach John what she had called proper economy. She remembered how she lectured when he brought home that handsome gray hat the first year they were married. And she thought, too, of the time when she made him return the smart looking suit he had bought at Smith's Style Shop.

Had she done right? Harry Adams and George White had always dressed well—and they had become successful. Was there something more to life than thrift after all? Was there something more to life than stinting and saving? Had her policy really retarded John? So Martha mused and came to the decision that altered and revolutionized their simple lives.

"John," she said that night, "your clothes are getting shabby. Better buy some new things. And John, dear," she continued, arising to stand close and stroke his head, "buy something better than the last outfit. Get yourself some better clothes. We can afford it and I want you to have a really smart suit and hat."

John did not know what it was all about but with the aid of the clothing salesman who told him of the newer styles, he bought a complete outfit—and next morning dressed for a day at the office, leaving home, with Martha standing proudly at the door.

"Good bye, Dear," she said, "you look like a different man."

And John felt different. No longer did he slink down into a rear seat in the suburban train. No longer did he hide his shabby tie and frayed collar behind his newspaper. Today, he greeted his old friends with assurance and joined heartily in the discussion of business and politics that usually took place on the way to the city.

The men, he noted, looked at him strangely, apparently unable to appreciate just what had happened.

And then—the day at the office!

Never before had the firm called John into conference. Never before had the Old Man brought a valued prospect into John's office for his advice. Never before—well—all this happened eight months ago.

Today John is a junior partner and Martha, gradually forgetting her stinting ways, is able too to ride about in their automobile, and know the joy of living.

Clothes did it. And though Martha never admitted to John the sudden reason for her change of thought she had hung in her home a handsome hand lettered bit of philosophy attractively framed and reading

MOONSHINE IS DEADLY

CHICAGO LOSES 390 IN ELEVEN MONTHS.

Health Commissioner Says 239 of Victims Die of Drink While 151 Murders, Suicides and Accidents Caused.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Moonshine caused 390 deaths here in the first eleven months of 1924, Dr. Herman Bundesen, health commissioner, estimated today in a booklet entitled "Moonshine, the Light That Blights."

Dr. Bundesen said that 239 of the victims died from moonshine poisoning while 151 murders, suicides and fatal accidents were caused by moonshine drinking.

"Moonshine poisoning is more prevalent than alcoholism was in pre-prohibition times," Dr. Bundesen declared.

"Since moonshine causes mental unbalance, one can readily see how it leads to crimes of the most atrocious variety. The suppression of the moonshine evil will also reduce crime."

All metropolitan centers are being flooded with poison liquor, Dr. Bundesen warned.

"This city, like every other metropolis, is being flooded with the rankest kind of concoctions—liquors made up of blends of raw spirits of wood alcohol, disguised denatured alcohol, synthetic gins, and hair tonic mixtures," he said.

Moonshine deaths are steadily increasing, Dr. Bundesen said. While the 1923 toials set a new record, the 1924 toll undoubtedly will exceed the previous year's figures by a fair margin, Dr. Bundesen believes.

In 1922 deaths all over the country from moonshine totaled 2,424, he estimated.

"For practical purpose we must consider moonshine poisoning as alcoholism of a modified type," Dr. Bundesen continued. "Practically all alcoholism now encountered clinically is of the moonshine type.

"It seems to me that to some persons any colored fluid with a kick in it goes for a beverage. But the hospitals, the morgues and the undertaking establishments are recording the final chapter of this story of pathetic gullibility and fateful trust."

Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

Copyright 1924 by G. H. Wry.

The Two-Finger Glove

Some one, with a knack for peppygrams, has remarked that trifles make up perfection, but perfection is no trifle. And a potential effusionist wrote that "so the little minutes, humble tho they be, make the mighty ages" and so forth. Now come the French with a proverb that "the nothings in dress are everything to appearance." All of which is a good deal like declaring that water is wet, sugar is sweet and fire burns. Men's dress is self-evidently an affair of incidentals, because the essentials allow but few and slight variations of effect. For example, your suit may be single-breasted or double; it cannot be anything else. Contrariwise, women's clothes rob the rainbow, plunder the periods and filch the fashions of the world since it began, from ancient Phoenicia down to modern Paris.

The two incidentals of one's dress most slighted are gloves and shoes. Yet, these are all-important to correct appearance, because they bespeak that attention to details which differentiates the smartly turned out man from the shoddy-smart. Gloves and shoes bear the hardest burden of wear and, therefore, should be most carefully watched and most frequently replaced. Wear neither until they wear out. Cast them aside before they begin to cast reflections upon you.

Among types of gloves or mitts for confessedly cold-weather use that are gaining wider vogue, because they are uncommonly practical and comfortable, is the two-finger style, illustrated here. This may be crome-tanned leather or knitted wool, such as Scotch, Angora or Australian, often fleece-lined and water-proofed. It is made to accommodate the thumb and forefinger separately and the other fingers together. Such a glove is capital for motoring, as well as for many winter sports and pastimes, as it grants free movement of the hand while imparting welcome warmth.

Other gloves of the same sort are made with only the thumb left free and some are finished with wide, high, stiff gauntlet wrists and a reefing strap below. Some have soft wrists, enabling them to be rolled up and conveniently rammed into one's pocket. We wise ones of today snicker reminiscently at the "pulsewarmers" our grandfathers wore, but who shall say that the old folks didn't have the right idea? Imitation makes derision pointless.

NEVER HAD A CHANCE

great open spaces of Nebraska where God's sunshine bathes practically every day, where the air is pure, where baseball is the kids' summer pastime and football the autumn, where good Christion homes prevail and the hovel is unknown, where churches and Sunday schools abound, where hearts beat warm and where practically every man and woman stands with arms extended to help the worthy but unfortunate, where schools are free and where it is a criminal offense for a child between the ages of six and sixteen years not to attend at least six months each year, and yet, when caught and confronted with the penalty for his orime he cries "I've never had a chance!"

He was committed to the state's industrial school for boys, where he attended divine worship, where he was taught discipline and where an attempt was made to stimulate his thoughts and direct his energies along useful and lawful lines. He was paroled to an indulgent parent. He was permitted and encouraged to labor in the open fields, and then he killed gruesomely, crushing the skull of his inoffensive victim with a hammer that he might easier steal his victim's automobile! And yet, he "never had a chance!" So says Donald Ringer, so says Clarence Darrow, also says Darrow's imitators who will seek to save Ringer from the law's penalty, so say the maudlin sentimentalists, so say the unthinking.

Judged by the opportunities the state afforded Donald Ringer, Chancellor Avery of our State University "never had a chance", Governor McMullen "never had a chance", ex-Governor McKelvie "never had a chance", ex-Governor Nexille "never had a chance", and no one of the hundreds of other native born men and women whose names are proudly written in the history of the state never had a chance.

No, Nebraska, isc not to blame because Donald Ringer chose a life of crime that leads to the electric chair, instead of a life of usefulness that leads to honor and respect. The state of Nebraska did for him all it could and should do.

That state of Nebraska will be to blame, however, if it does not hake an example of Donald Ringer that will be a deterrent to the next ingrate who is tempted to rob or murder rather than engage in honest toil.

Donald Ringer's course from now on will perhaps be the usual one.

The stage is being set. The actors are rehearsing their parts. Despite his confession he'll enter a plea of "not guilty." A jury will be empanelled. Counsel for the accused will attack and villify the officers. A stranger dropping into the court room would surmise that the state's officers, on whom we depend for the safety of our lives and our property, were the real offenders. If the verdict is guilty with the penalty death, almost interminable appeals will follow. An unknown and a miserable, thieving murderer will immediately blossom into a national character. Printer's ink will flow from Maine to California. Hundreds of dollars will be donated for his defense and buckets of tears shed for his fate, but not one cent will be contributed for the support of his victim's widow, not one tear will be shed for her fatherless boy, and not one thought given for the child yet unborn that will never know the caress and love of its own daddy.

If the sentence be life improsinment, then a few brief years behind prison bars and once more freedom! Such was the history of Dinsmore who murdered his wife and his sweetheart's husband. Such was the history of Tony Ciarletta, who murdered while committing a robbery. Such has been the history of other Nebraska murderers.

No, Nebraska is not to blame because it didn't give Donald Ringer a chance. Nebraska is not to blame because he did not appreciate what the state and its good people did for him. Nebraska is not to blame because he did not respect the law. But Nebraska is to blame because he did not fear the law! Nebraska will be to blame if it does not make such an example of Doland Ringer that others who are too lazy to work and who are tempted to rob and kill will say: "No. See what happened to Donald Ringer," and stay their felonious designs.

County Attorney.

BILLS JUMP OUT OF BOX

then go before a notary. By the time he gets back a comparatively small amount from the department of agriculture, he would find that red tape had more than eaten up the margin."

The Bailey bill places administration in the hands of the state oil inspector thru his deputies. The revenue from tax is apportioned to counties in proportion to state and federal highway mileage. The bill, according to the introducer, is in line with Governor McMullen's views.

Mr. Bailey is not in favor of a radical reduction in auto license fees. The reduction, he said, should not in his opinion, exceed twenty-five per cent. The increase from the gas tax, he believes, will amount to seven times as much as the twenty-five per cent taken off if this is done. Altho not strongly in favor of any reduction in license fees, he will not object, he said, to the 25 per cent as a sort of compromise.

The bill, according to the introducer, does not contemplate additional machinery with the possible exception of one clerk.

"The administration is simple," he said. "Colorado's average revenue per month from the gas tax during the past year was $99,000 while the average cost of administration was but $498 or one-half of one per cent. The Colorado law was enacted six years ago and so far as I can ascertain, but one amendment has been attached. Administration originally was placed in the hands of a specially created gasoline force or department. The amendment shifted administration to oil inspectors and this plan, I believe, is working satisfactorily."

Mrs. C. H. Hare was installed president of the Corps for the third consecutive time. There are sixty-five members, who under Mrs. Hare's regime have worked harmoniously with the post. Mrs. Maude B. YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. P. P. J.: I thank you so much for your suggestion and appreciate your taking the trouble to write me. The fact that you weaned your baby to a proprietary food makes it impossible for me to publish your letter. You see we can't use this department to advertise any brands of baby food, no matter how satisfactory they may have proven in your case. Thank you just the same.

Mrs. W. R. writes: "My baby is eight months old and weight twenty pounds. I give him four feedings daily of three-fourths milk, one-fourth barley water, two tablespoons of malt extract and one of karo syrup. Besides, he gets vegetable water and oats. In spite of this he is constantly constipated and I do not like to give magnesia all the time. Is there any other form of sugar that is as laxative as malt, as we find this very expensive to use?"

Answer: The baby is of splendid weight and being fed correctly. Perhaps you would find the withdrawal of the extract would do no harm at all. Use more karo, six tablespoons daily instead of just one, and no extract. Use orange or prune juice daily. This problem should right itself naturally in the next few months when the baby is getting cereal twice daily and the pureed vegetables. This additional bulk ought to do the trick.

Mona writes: "Will you tell me how soon after conception the menstrual period ceases? How soon will one be troubled with nausea? In what department of the government can one get booklets relating to the facts of life suitable for giving to a sixteen-year-old girl?"

Answer: When conception takes place after a period, the next period usually does not appear. The nausea is more common the first six weeks of pregnancy.

Write to the children's bureau, department of labor, Washington, D. C., and ask for a leaflet of the kind you describe. If they haven't it they will direct you to the correct department, I am sure.

SUGAR SHOWS PROSPERITY.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 12.—Sugar is the world's yardstick of prosperity, according to R. F. Taber, an Ohio state university economist. "Sugar, as much as any one product, tells how prosperous the leading nations of the world are," says Taber. "With sugar as the yardstick, the United States leads the world in prosperity and Russia is near the bottom of the list." Taber explains that altho a certain amount of sugar will be used as a necessity, all sweets over a certain point are regarded as luxury.

LATE NEWS OF YESTERDAY

BEATRICE SHERIFF BRINGS IN HIS MAN

Sheriff Sailing Returns Prisoner Despite the Efforts of Colorado Authorities to Stop Him.

BEATRICE, Neb., Jan. 11.—Sheriff John R Sailing, of Gage county, arrived here at noon Sunday with John L. Wyatt, of Denver, wanted here on charges of violation of the Nebraska blue sky law, in custody. Sheriff Sailing returned his man despite the efforts of Colorado authorities to serve him with a warrant charging him with kidnaping his prisoner following habeas corpus proceedings filed in a Denver court by Wyatt's attorneys. The case has aroused considerable interest thru failure of Colorado authorities to find Sailing after he was known to have left Denver with his prisoner.

Sheriff Sailing declared upon his arrival here that he had made no attempt at secrecy on his return from Denver, and on the request of Wyatt had stopped in several cities en route. The officer stated that when he left Denver he had not been advised of the warrant issued for his apprehension.

Wyatt is wanted here on charges of blue sky law violation upon complaint of M. L. Rawlings of Wymore. He was known to be in Denver and requisition was made to Governor Sweet of Colorado for his return. The Colorado governor honored the request and Sheriff Sailing was sent to bring Wyatt back. Later the habeas corpus action was instituted.

Wyatt is alleged to have represented a Denver loan and investment firm and solicited business from the complaining witness without first securing proper permission from the state in accordance with the laws of Nebraska. A preliminary hearing will probably be held here Monday or Tuesday before County Judge Fred Messmore.

NEBRASKA CITY, Jan. 11.—The first gun in the case of Isador Tucker, of Omaha, formerly Nebraska City merchant, who asks $50,000 damages for injuries he received when he was shot by a nightwatchman here during a burglar chase two years ago, was fired today in the office of the clerk of the district court when attorneys for the plaintiff began gathering evidence from witnesses.

Two local law firms represent most of the forty or more Nebraska City business men who are joined as defendants because they contributed to the pay of the nightwatchman who did the shooting. Two other defendants, also joined, the M. E. Smith Co. and the American Railway Express Co., are represented by Omaha lawyers.

Deducting the gravel costs, this is about the same amount spent in 1923. Maintenance of one hundred miles of federal aid highway cost $20,670.46. Rebuilding and construction of bridges took $47,449 64—an amount that has been cut 25 per cent in recent years because of economy and the maintenance of a county bridge gang.

The special dragging fund spent $17,013 90. Juries cost $1,932.70. Only $256.15 was spent for soldiers' relief—once a large item. The amount of $4,967.29 was drawn from the inheritance tax fund for permanent road improvement.

The general fund expenses were $62,782 59. This includes $18,000 for salaries, $8,500 for court house expenses, $2,472 for school supplies, $2,898 for widows' allowances, $3,871 for paupers' supplies, $1,609 for jail expenses, and $3,036 for election expenses.

PLAN TO SAVE ELK.

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., Jan. 12.—Never again shall the "Tragedy of Jackson Hole" devastate the herds of Wyoming elk, wiping them out in thousands by starvation. That is the decree of the Isaak Walton league of America, 89,000 strong, which has announced its purpose of creating one of the largest game reserves in the country by buying every ranch in the Jackson Hole country. These ranches which now cover the lower altitudes were once the winter feeding ground of the elk. When storms of winter drove them down from the mountains, they found a haven in the lush meadows, luxuriant in wild grasses.

BETTER THAN WHISKEY FOR COLDS AND FLU

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whisky, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away like a dream, within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night.—Advertisement.

ASKS RELIEF FROM TOILS

WOMAN'S ATTORNEY SAYS SHE IS BOUND IN CHAINS.

Loathes Man She Married, Yet She Is Unable to Secure Release From Him by Divorce or Otherwise.

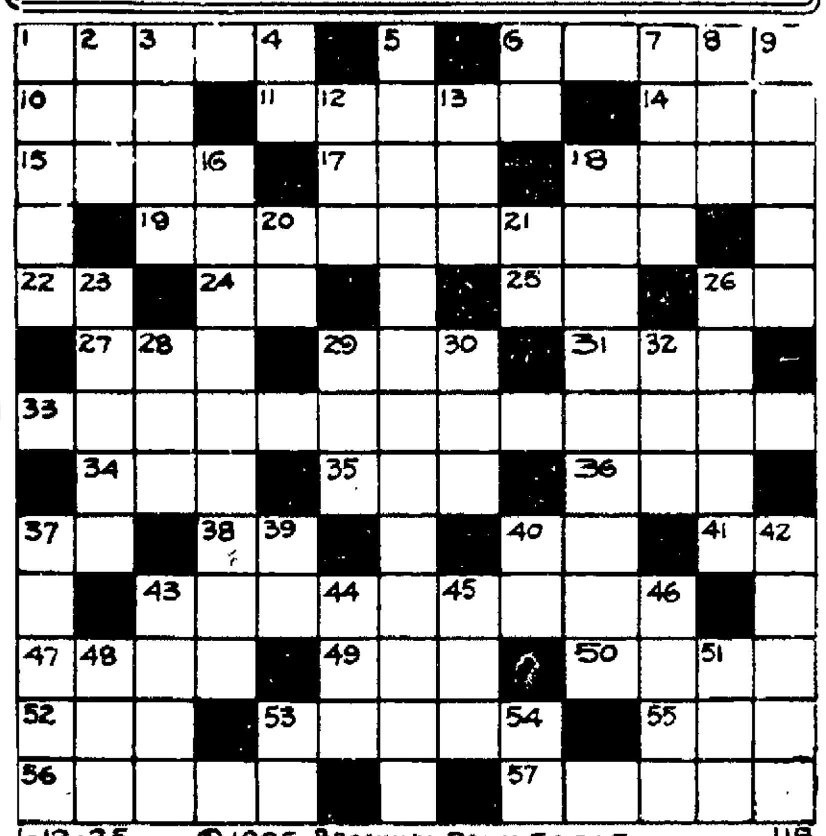

Mrs. Lydia Elizabetth Baker, whose plea to be released from the marriage she entered into with Grover C. Baker, with whom she eloped four years ago, was recently refused by the supreme court has filed a motion for a rehearing. Her attorneys contend that the judgment of the court is contrary to law and that there is insufficient grounds upon which to base it.

When she was seventeen the girl, then Miss Roth, kept company with Baker, some years older. Her parents objected to their marriage because of her age, but Baker persuaded her to run away with him. After a few days' honeymoon she returned home and has remained there ever since. Her attorneys declare that she is entitled, on equitable grounds, to have the marriage annulled, insisting that the marriage was procured by fraud and consummated by felony. They explain that the license was secured by Baker misrepresenting her age, and that the consummation amounted in law to a criminal assault since the license was procured by perjury.

Under the opinion of the court, they say, the girl is bound for a lifetime to a man she loathes. For her there is no relief this side of the grave. Assuming that Baker will take the same unchivalrous attitude so far maintained, he can prevent her getting a divorce, thus forging on "his child victim" the chains of slavery worse than those on persons of lower mentality and refinement who, resigned to their lot, may still find a tolerable existence.

They say that as there is no third party involved her equitable rights should be considered. The court's opinion is described as a judicial rebuke to the child who tried to honor and obey her parents but who was overcome by the insistence of a mature and artful man.

TUESDAY'S SILENT STATIONS
WCAP, WCBD, WHO, WOS, WMH, PWX, WHAZ, CFCF, KFKX, KFAR.
NOTE: These programs compiled from official advance schedules, but subject to possible minor changes.

Very little sugar comes in from that section of the country, most of it coming from Colorado, Utah and California, which shipments bear the same rate to all interior jobbing points in the state.

Forty-two degrees below zero was recorded at Wamsutter, Wyo.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Advertisement.

WILL HEAR COMPLAINTS

Interstate Commerce Commission to Send Man to Lincoln Early in March.

Two important hearings on rate matters are to be held in Lincoln early in March by the interstate commerce commission. The state commission has received word that its complaint asking for a review of the corn, grain and grain products from Nebraska points to points in Kansas and Oklahoma will be heard at the federal building here on March 2, while its complaint as to sugar rates from New Orleans to interior jobbing points in Nebraska will be heard the following day.

Nebraska ships considerable corn into the two states to the south named, thru the Superior gateway, and this now carries the sum of the two local rates, which makes it much higher than is believed to be fair and desirable. The commission is asking for a thru rate that will enable a free movement of corn and grain in that direction when the demand is on.

The sugar rates from New Orleans are objected to because they are materially higher to interior Nebraska jobbing points than they are to similar cities in Kansas.

Good Night Stories

By Blanche Silver
Illustrated by Madge Geyer

DOTTY HAS A MOST PLEASANT SURPRISE.

"GOODNESS me!" Dotty exclaimed, as she almost stumbled over the big grayish-brown bird and a flock of tiny yellow balls. "Did I hurt you or are you just startled?"

For the largest bird began to limp on one leg and drag one wing along the ground as if in pain.

"I'm so sorry," said Dotty softly. "I don't know who you are, but I'm a friend of Happy Giggles, and——"

"Good gracious me!" and the bird straightened up in a jiffy. "Come babies," she called. "That's different. I thought you were a hunter searching for me and my family. I'm Mrs. Ruffed Grouse. Come, babes; come, babes!" and Mrs. Ruffed Grouse made a queer drumming sound with her wings, and out from the bushes where they had been hiding scamp ered ten little yellow balls of feathers. "Children, this little girl is a friend of Happy Giggles, and——"

"Dotty is my name," laughed Dotty. "Why, I wouldn't harm a feather on your pretty heads.

"So you are Mrs. Ruffed Grouse? I don't think I've ever seen you before."

"I'll bet your Uncle Johnny has, all right," chuckled Mrs. Ruffed Grouse.

"So you've never seen me before? Then have a good look; I don't mind," and Mrs. Ruffed Grouse turned all around so Dotty could see her.

She was about sixteen inches long, upper parts chestnut, varied with grayish and yellowish brown, white and black. The feathers on her head raised slightly to form a crest and a yellow line of feathers crossed over the eye. Her tail was long, and she spread it out fan-like so Dotty could see it plainer.

"Not as pretty as our friend, Mr.

"You Are Mrs. Ruffed Grouse."

Peacock, but not a bad-looking tail, do you think?" she laughed.

It was a pretty tail—yellowish-brown, rather rusty looking, beautifully barred with irregular bands, half buff and black.

"Indeed, it is a pretty tail," agreed Dotty. "I think you are a pretty bird. Does your husband look anything like you?"

"Well, yes, we dress just about the same," laughed Mrs. Ruffed Grouse. "Only I don't believe my colors are quite as vivid as his. Then on the sides of Daddy Ruffed Grouse's neck you'll find a large tuft of glossy greenish black feathers, tipped with brown of a lighter shade. I haven't them. Some of my female friends wear these side decorations, but I haven't any.

"I hope the next time you see me, you'll know me at once," and giving a queer little whirring sound, Mrs. Ruffed Grouse and her yellow babies scooted under the bushes and that was the last Dotty saw of them for a long time.

A WIFE'S CONFESSIONAL

Adele Garrison's New Phase of

Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1925, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Hugh Grantland Speaks Through His Servant's Lips.

I HAD been astonished at Lee Chow's knowledge of our family affairs, but this last calm statement revealing not only what I knew, but something which I only had surmised, left me in much the state of a fish thrown upon the land.

So Mother Graham had made an appointment to meet the mysterious tramp in the woodland back of the house! Subconsciously, of course, I had known this ever since her imperative demand for one hundred dollars which I had brought her but a few hours before, and which even while asleep she clutched in the pocket of her gown. I had resolved also that I would go with her. But Mother Graham had told me nothing concerning any such appointment, nor had I breathed my knowledge to her. How in the name of all that was occult and mysterious had the Chinese found out this thing?

No time was given me for conjecture, however, for Lee Chow was speaking again, softly, but with a note of finality in his monotonous voice:

"Not Walk Any More."

"Missee Graham not walk any more out here, not have children walk out here, not have old boss lady walk out here till to-morrow ten o'clock?"

I made the mental comment that this must be the hour Mother Graham had had planned for her appointment before I answered him.

"No," I promised sincerely. "Nobody will come out here until then."

"That ver' good." He permitted himself a little break in the monotone which had invested his words. "Now, will boss lady blow whistle again, please?"

With the feeling that I was cutting a rather ridiculous figure, I put the whistle to my lips and blew it. Once more the two Chinese rose from the underbrush, but this time, Lee Chow beckoned them to come nearer.

When they had come within a few paces, he halted them with an imperative upraised hand, and proceeded to harangue them in his own language, with gestures toward me which admitted of no interpretation save the premise that they were being sworn into my service whenever I should need them. The little performance was illuminative of one thing, to my mind, and that was Lee Chow's supremacy over the other two Chinese. That they recognized him as one with authority was plainly to be seen.

He finished his talk abruptly, and waved his hand in dismissal. The other two men plodded off, and Lee Chow turned to me.

"They go back to laundry now," he said simply, and I almost choked in the endeavor to keep from my lips the laughter which I knew would mortally offend the man.

"You surely come with old boss lady to-morrow?" he asked, and at my assent, he nodded in grave approval.

"Missee Graham see big white man, if she think all ri', let old boss lady give man hundred dollars. If Missee Graham not think it all right, make old boss lady keep money. If big white man get ugly, blow whistle. Lee Chow near. Lee Chow's men near."

He paused and waited, evidently for my approval of his plans, and I gave it promptly.

"You have arranged things very thoughtfully, Lee Chow," I said, "and I am most grateful for everything you are doing for me. Thank you so much."

"Missee Graham no thank me," he said, shaking his head. "Thank big boss man. He say: 'Lee Chow, you go, stay by Missee Graham all time she need you. If she need you some time, and you die, no matter, you die, allee same me, so she keep safe.'"

"My Old Friend Speaking."

Through the careful monotone of the Oriental's voice throbbed a note which I fancied I recognized as an echo of Hugh Grantland's well-remembered tones. It was as if my old friend were speaking to me through the lips of the Chinese. The idea caught at my throat, and with something very like a sob choking my utterances, I extended both hands toward the impassive man standing before me.

"Lee Chow!" I said imperatively. "Tell me, you must, what has happened to Major Grantland?"

He lifted his eyes and looked at me steadily.

"Why Missee Graham want to know?" he inquired.

The question echoed and re-echoed in my brain before I answered it. I hesitated to put into words the real reason for my query.

"Why, he was a very dear friend of mine," I parried. "Naturally I am anxious to know where he is."

Lee Chow shook his head slowly. "Not good," he said. "If Missee Graham want help big boss man, go hunt him, I tell her."

THE HOME KITCHEN

Dumplings Served With Soup Course Add Much to Meal

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON
The Authority on Home Cooking

SOUP garnishes are in a class of their own and American cooks are not as expert in their making as are the cooks of other nationalities. The garnishes are in many forms and include diced vegetables, croutons, toast squares, dumplings, filled wafers, cheese balls, potato wafers, macaroni pastes in different forms and the various noodles. Many of the garnishes are cooked separately and added to the soup.

Coronet Dumplings.

These dumplings are to use in clear chicken bouillon, or other clear soup that has been very slightly thickened with arrowroot. The dumplings are placed in the soup plate and the soup turned over them. Take a large can of tomatoes and add to them a sliced onion, some chopped celery, a chopped pepper, seed cone removed, and a bunch of sweet herbs. Pepper, salt, a tablespoonful of sugar and quarter of a bay leaf may be added. Cook gently for twenty minutes then strain into a pint measure, adding enough water to fill the measure. When slightly cool beat into the mixture five eggs that have been beaten together and turn into a well-buttered pudding mould. Set the mould into boiling water, cover the top with a greased paper and allow it to boil gently, but steadily, for one hour. When slightly cool turn into a plate and cut in inch square dice, or in balls with a potato cutter.

Liver Dumplings.

Wash and chop fine a half pound of fresh calf's liver, add a grated onion, two well beaten eggs, salt, pepper, a teaspoonful of melted butter, and enough fine dry crumbs to mould the mass into balls the size of good sized marbles. Drop the dumplings into boiling salted water and cook evenly and steadily for fifteen minutes. Drain and allow two or three to each portion of soup.

Austrian Potato Dumplings.

Boil five potatoes until done but not soft. Peel and then grate them. When grated, add four beaten eggs, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, three quarters of a teaspoonful of salt, a half saltspoonful of pepper, and sifted flour enough to hold the mass together, so it may be formed into small dumplings. Drop the dumplings into deep hot fat and brown them delicately. Drain and serve three in each portion of clear soup.

Forcemeat Balls.

Take a quarter of a cupful of beef-marrow and chop it fine. Add to it a half cupful of breadcrumbs, beaten yolks of two eggs, pepper, salt, a teaspoonful of grated onion, a teaspoonful of very finely minced celery leaves, and a few drops of kitchen bouquet. Mould into small balls, roll them in the white of an egg, dust lightly with a little flour and drop into gently boiling salted water. Boil five minutes, drain, and serve in the soup.

Noodles.

Make a thin batter of two beaten eggs, half a cupful of milk, a little salt, half a cupful of grated cheese, and enough flour to hold the mass together, it should be as solid as a soft custard. Have three pints of clear soup well seasoned and boiling steadily, turn the noodle mixture through a colander into the boiling soup and boil ten or twelve minutes and then serve. These noodles are very tasty and a change from the plain ones and go nicely with a clear tomato or asparagus soup.

IN the search for Love, one never stops to see whether trespassing is allowed or not. Wherever the hunting is good, there you will find some dainty trespasser, fearfully treading the unknown paths. WHAT'S the greatest virtue in the world?

Patience, generosity, kindliness—they are all good.

But it seems to me that courage is the finest thing of all.

You can't get very far without courage, can you?

Winifred Black

I met a woman in the street this morning, a woman no longer young, and she was dressed quietly and she wore a quiet pretty hat, but in the collar of her coat she had pinned a knot of fragrant purple violets.

"I'm so glad violet time has come," said the woman who is no longer young, "I find myself beginning to long for them just about this time of year. I really can't afford them, but somehow I can't afford not to have them.

"Yes, they're beautiful and they're fragrant, but that isn't why I like to wear them—did you ever think about violets and how brave they are, the little, delicate, dainty things coming up through the dark earth in the cold and the rain before anything else has the courage to bloom?

"They're so shy and so modest and yet how full of courage they are.

"I like to think of them, sometimes, when I lie awake at night and cannot sleep because my brain is busy or because my heart is a little sore—pushing, pushing up through the sod to the sunshine, and that's what I try to do, even when my heart is very heavy, and it seems as if I couldn't gather the strength to go on alone very much longer.

Get Another Whiff of Courage.

"I remember the quiet little flower down there in the earth reaching to the sunshine, and I reach for the sunshine, too, and it helps me, and when some sad thought clouds my mind a minute, I just sink my head into my collar and get a good strong breath of the violets and their fragrance, and I am better—dear me, how I talk.

"Why, I ought to be thankful to be alive at all on a glorious day like this with so much to see, and do and feel and think—yes, I must get another whiff of courage."

And she laughed and went her way and I saw her laughing and talking with another that she met, a little frail, delicate, discouraged girl, with a good deal of responsibility on her thin shoulders, and what do you think the woman with the violets did?

She took off the flowers that were her comfort and her joy and pinned them on the shabby coat of the frail young woman with her pale face and sad eyes, and it seemed to me that the young woman straightened her tired shoulders and held up her head and walked with a lighter and more buoyant tread.

Oh, yes: we can lend it to each other—this courage that carries us through the rough places of life. We can give it to each other, too, or we can take it away, but that is a cruel and a wicked thing to do.

You can live without hope, you can live without joy, you can live without pleasure, but when courage is gone, you might as well say good-bye, for nothing that you do will be worth doing after that.

How it shines in his dark eyes like a lighted lamp—the courage that helped a young and noble soul to struggle on to a life that is full of sorrow and disappointment!

How it beams from her gentle eyes like a message from the stars themselves, the noble courage of the sweet young woman I have just seen. She who bears in her loving heart a deep and bitter sorrow—and smiles as if she had never known a grief.

Ah, it is not only the soldiers in their uniforms, it is not only the men up there in the airplanes or those down in their diving suits under the heavy seas that need so bitterly the refreshing draught of courage.

Let's Lift Our Voices and Sing.

You need it and I need it—come, dear sister, come little brother, we're just walking down this lonesome road we call life a little ways together!

Let's lift up our voices and sing!

It will give us courage and maybe some poor soul struggling with a heavy burden will hear us and pick up the load and carry it with a proud smile.

Here's to courage, the greatest virtue of the human heart, the greatest bearer of heavy burdens—good courage, gay courage, light-hearted courage, noble courage—here's to you and here's to us who need you so bitterly!

A Treatment to Improve the Luster of Your Hair

By LUCREZIA BORI
The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

DO you notice that your hair becomes dull and lifeless at times, and loses the lovely sheen that marks the head of beautiful healthy, glistening hair?

LUCREZIA BORI

Many women complain of this symptom. It becomes apparent especially when one is not feeling well, and your general vitality is at low ebb. The hairs become lifeless, and instead of each hair standing separately, numbers of them seem to stick together. Then your entire head of hair seems stringy and lifeless and dull, and you wonder what to do to restore its natural beauty.

Now I am going to tell you of a very simple treatment which will be of invaluable aid in restoring your hair quickly. If you follow this treatment, you will notice a decided improvement immediately, and a few applications will bring your hair back to its former beauty.

There are a number of simple hair tonics on the market which are inexpensive and which are really most beneficial in their results. If you apply them properly they serve to cleanse the scalp and to restore the individual hairs to their natural sheen. I advise that you consult your druggist, and choose one of these inexpensive tonics. Most of them are supposed to aid in removing dandruff, and even if you are not troubled with dandruff, this will not hurt your hair.

Begin by brushing your hair thoroughly with a perfectly clean, fresh hair brush. Take your comb and divide your hair first through the center. Brush it up and out from here, taking care that the strokes of your brush begin well down near your scalp, so that they cleanse the dust away from the roots of your hair. Part your hair again and again, brushing thoroughly the various little tufts that you divide off by vertical and horizontal parts.

Now you are ready to apply the tonic. Pour a small portion of it into a shallow saucer. You must also have some fresh absorbent cotton. You can buy small packages of this from your druggist, and they, too, are very inexpensive.

Take a bit of the cotton and saturate it with the tonic. Rub this cotton along the parts of your hair, beginning with the center part, just as you did in brushing. Then work off into the side parts that you make from the center part as you need them. Take fresh bits of cotton when necessary.

When you have applied the tonic pretty well about your scalp, you are ready for the light massage. This simply means rubbing your scalp vigorously with your fingertips. By doing this you stimulate the circulation of your scalp, and at the same time you work the tonic deeper into your scalp.

Rub with particular vigor at the sides of your head near your forehead. These are the portions of your head that get least nourishment, because they are not supplied with veins as generously as the back and the top of your head. Hence they receive less nourishment and have less natural oils and fat of their own. This is why these sections are often not so thickly supplied with hair as the other parts of your head.

After the massage, arrange your hair as becomingly as you know how. You should notice an improvement in its sheen immediately, and this will improve if you repeat the treatment every few days.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, JANUARY 13.

The planetary forces for this day are most favorably disposed, assisting to flourishing and particularly lively conditions in all manner of business and professional pursuits. The financial prospects are excellent and all affairs should react to the expansive force of a benignant Jupiter. In all that pertains to social, domestic and affectional matters there should also be felt the benefic influence of a most friendly Venus position. But these very propitious auguries should not be nullified by turbulence or strife.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a very prosperous and happy year, with all manner of affairs and affiliations flourishing, but this good fortune should not be negatived by rash actions and ill temper. A child born on this day may be versatile, talented, and have good judgment and win the good will and affection of many people, but it should be taught control over a tendency to rash and impulsive acts and words.

Advice to Girls By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been going with a girl for about three years and I love her very much. She is very attractive and is loved by every one who knows her.

At our last social she accused me of loving another girl and told me she did not want me to come back to see her.

I think the reason for her not liking me is that I cannot carry on a conversation.

I am asking you for some advice in regard to carrying on a conversation and how I can win her back. FRECKLES.

FRECKLES: There are only two reasons why some people find it difficult to carry on a conversation, Freckles. Either they are shy and self-conscious or else they have nothing to talk about. And, fortunately, both of these conditions can be remedied.

If you just forget about yourself completely and think of what you have to say, and not about the impression you are creating you won't have time to be shy and backward. Act just as you do when you are in the midst of the family circle.

Keep interested in everything that is going on about you. Read books and magazines and papers. And, above all, talk about the things you know your companions are interested it and you will have no difficulty.

Railroad President Finds Walking to Be a Tonic

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

NOT long ago I attended an all day function which attracted the presidents of thirty-one great railroads. I had a natural curiosity to meet these men, many of whom I had never seen but whose names had been familiar for years.

It was interesting to find that a number of them read these health articles. In little groups we talked about many things and frequently about health. From time to time I shall tell you the methods used by different ones of these famous men to maintain physical vigor.

Towards the end of the day, one railroad president gave me his daily program. It is pretty strenuous and could not be followed by another man except he possessed the same fundamentally strong body. But with equal physical equipment and leisure to do the things, there could be no more desirable way of maintaining figure and vigor.

After an early breakfast the president rides horseback. He does not go out before daylight to ride on an empty stomach. He takes the sensible view that there is more pleasure and more good in his way.

After the ride the office work is done with cheerfulness and alacrity. I can tell by looking at him that nobody loafs in his office, and surely the man himself doesn't.

At the end of office hours what do you suppose this railroad president does? He walks home every day, rain or shine—six miles!

Recently a newspaper man dropped in for an interview. Instead of staying to give it, as most of us weak mortals would do, the railroader said: "Sorry, it's too late; I'm going home." When he saw the look of disappointment on the face of the reporter he said: "If you care to walk along with me I'll give you the interview." At the end of three miles the reporter was worn out, but the president kept on with his walk and the interview for the full distance.

Of course, this man does not play golf. He doesn't need to; his daily programme makes it unnecessary.

The most valuable idea I gained from our talk was the rule followed in case of a trip of several days on the railroad. If you have had occasion, as I have had many times, to spend three or four nights on a sleeper, you know how worn out you become.

This president does not go to the office the day after his return. He stays at home, walks in the fields and woods, giving himself a whole day of fresh air and freedom from the strain and worries of business.

You may not do all this strenuous man does, but you can do a part of each of the things. If you will, you can be as vigorous and young looking as he is. I looked him up in "Who's Who." It is hard to believe the record. This successful railroad president is older by at least twelve years than his face and carriage indicate.

"THE GOLDEN BED"

THE SEASON'S GREATEST NOVEL OF MARRIAGE.

Produced as a Paramount picture by Cecil B. DeMille from a screen adaptation by Jeanie Macpherson.

BY WALLACE IRWIN (Copyright.)

Sunday's Instalment.

Admah refused to produce the ...ket of White Rock for the Satsuma ...owd, with a feeling of barbarous joy ...e Hunter O'Neill's discomfiture, he discovered that Flora Lee Peake was one ...f the group. As usual, he withered ...efore one of her sprightly attacks. In ...er eyes he was still the lowly Candy Man. Arousing from his chagrin he got ...nto his roadster and started out along ...er boulevard with the intention of proposing to Miss Hortense de Long, whom he felt confident would accept ...im. But on the way out something ...erated his thoughts to Uncle Lafe and ...e turned the car toward Dell'a Landing, ...ust a turn of the wheel. Otherwise ...e might have found Miss Hortense at ...ome, willing and waiting. From that ...day on he might have lived drowsily on ...a sleek plush pillow, his future settled, ...his history forgotten, as so many are.

"Brownie," he thundered, 'you look tired. Don't she look like hell, Ad? Too much settin' up night. Now you go to bed, sweetie, and git a little rest."

'And leave the jug out I suppose," said Aunt Brownie with as much rancor as she could employ.

"Ain't she wonderful, Ad?" he asked, getting his aged sweetheart around the waist and regarding her with loving pride. "That's the way with her. Just thinks of everything. Knows durned well I can't talk business without gittin' drunk. Yes, leave out the jug, cutie, and kiss Admah good night."

When her footsteps had echbed up the stairs Uncle Lafe bawled hoarsely: "Look here, boy. How much money have you got?"

"I could raise seventy-five thousand, I reckon," said Admah, surprised into a quick guess. "Arthur de Long—you know, the oldest of the de Long boys—wants to buy Hersinger's. I still own half of the Red Front store, but I wouldn't want to sell out on Jo. Then there is the Scudderville store."

Uncle Lafe fished into his mud colored coat to bring out a grubby scrap of paper. This he unfolded between his large, cracked thumbs to show the letterhead of the Principality Trust company with some smeared blue columns of typewriting below. Admah could make nothing out of the rows of figures with additions that went up into the millions. It was grotesque, this important scrap of paper coming out of the hog farmer's shabby coat.

"What's it all about?" asked the nephew, puzzling over a column marked "Liabilities."

"That," wheezed Uncle Lafe, in a mighty whisper, "is the T. & P. as she stands today. She's takin' in water faster than they can pump."

"Gosh." The T. & P. What visions of superhuman power flashed into his mind at mention of that well remembered name! Puzzled and impressed, Admah sat staring at the figures.

"Where'd you get this?" he finally asked.

"Jim Atterbury give it to me yesterday when I was to town. I guess you know Jim, don't you?"

"I know of him," admitted Admah. Everybody knew of Colonel James W. Atterbury, president of the Principality Trust.

"I been sellin' hams to Jim for twenty years now," explained Uncle Lafe. "And I been on the board of directors since 1910."

It was all so casual. There he sat in the dim light of a kerosene lamp, his sleeves rolled back to show his red flannel undershirt, relics of his enormous meal strewing the oil cloth table cover, a corner of his crooked mouth stained with tobacco—and he had been a director in the Principality Trust since 1910. It would have surprised Admah less had he said, "I am the lost czar of Russia."

Uncle Lafe went thundering on—Admah had a mental picture of Aunt Brownie upstairs taking in every word — "I been keepin' my eyes on this here T. & P. It's bein' run by a lot o' windbags. Look at that there smart allck, Garnett Peake."

"He's got money in the T. & P.?" This was news.

"If you call it money. Everything that pinhead touches turns to dirt. Now that the judge is dead and the house is up for sale Garnett's gone down to Charleston to live on his wife. That's about his size. This here Tool Works made some money durin' the war, but they lost it all tryin' to git their machinery back on a peace basis, or whacha-callit. Anyhow, they couldn't supply the demand, and when they started makin' tools again what happened? The farm market went flat and you can't sell a hoe from here to Kalamazoo."

He took more Bourbon, renewed his quid, slammed the glass on the oilcloth and roared:

"Ad, if you was Jo I'd have to put this here idea on the phonograph and play it before you'd catch on. But I guess you know what I'm drivin' at."

"To buy the T. & P.——"

"It can be done," said Captain Lafe, and his voice grew unusually quiet. "Their common stock's now down to nine. The Principality Trust owns 'em, soul and britches. I was talkin' to Jim only yesterday and he told me how we can get a lot for our money, you and me——"

"It's a big gamble," murmured Admah.

"Afraid to gamble, huh?" twitted the retired skipper who, in his day, had thrown hams and table legs into the furnace to win a race up river. He sat stolid as Buddha, admiring his own paunch while Admah walked around the room, considering what to do. It looked like a rash plunge; but Captain Lafe was shrewd. He wasn't spending his money to impress a girl who had come back from Spain to call him a Candy Man. Candy Man. The phrase hummed in Admah's ear like a poisonous insect.

"Jim Atterbury," said Uncle Lafe out of the silence, "has spoken to me about you."

"What did he say?" asked Admah thickly.

"He thinks you're the man to make 'er float."

Admah came back and sat down heavily. Uncle Lafe's whisky seemed to differ from all others in that it had a charming effect on the imagination. The first time he had tasted it he had dreamed audaciously under the moon and met Love on the roadside. And tonight his fancy raged again. Visions of empire. Alexander, conquering for the lust of conquest, picking up little kingdoms and squeezing them as a child squeezes a ripe tomato.

"There's consid'rable risk," Uncle Lafe was saying, "and I ain't such a old fool that I'm goin' to go broke on it. But I'll gamble $25,000 on what Jim says."

"That wouldn't give us control," said Admah upon a last effort of caution.

"Who wants it? Why don't you and me go to Atterbury and have a talk tomorrow? If you want anything—" Uncle Lafe sat turning his quid. "What do you want, Ad?"

"To be president of the T. & P.," he replied calmly.

After that they stared across the kerosene lamp, these two able representatives of a family, which, according to local tradition, should never have raised its head above the mud flat where it was spawned.

CHAPTER XLVIII.

When Flora Lee, Marquesa de San Pilar, came back from Spain she had gloried in her Oval Chamber, waiting for her just as she had left it, a bluish Venetian mirror casting cool reflections, four gilded swans raising haughty wings to greet her. Across her bed she had laid the embroidered coverlid with its dogs, swans and pheasants; a relic which she never views without one thought of triumph, another of regret.

If she was irritated to know that the house was crumbling for shame of its owners, that its every stone had been appraised by tradespeople who had profited on the Peake tradition that it was poor form to ask the price of anything, yet the thought of impending bankruptcy touched her never failing sense of humor. They were intending to auction Peake property! What a silly, butter-fingered business!

Returning late the night before the public sale, she tittered emptily at the numbered tags fastened to everything. Having taken too many wretched prohibition cocktails she was willing to see the joke and be gleeful because she had turned the key and kept their nasty tags from her own beloved things. She laughed, too—or made a face like it—at the letter which she found on a table by her door. It was postmarked Madrid.

"My dear Flora Lee," it ran, "I had the pleasure this afternoon of unwrapping a mummy in the Royal Museum here. She was a very old young lady, this mummy, having danced herself to death at the age of seventeen in the period of Amenophis III. Buried with her were immortal relics: a powder rat, a jar for cold cream, a pencil for outlining the eyebrows. Also a curious device of bronze wire, what you call a 'rat'—contrived to deform the hair into a fashionable headdress. It was all so very touching, and reminded me of you. Flora Lee.

"I am so pleased to give you your freedom and to hope that it will make you merrier still. My religion forbids a divorce, but since you have returned to your own, why should you not be severed from me according to your laws? Please call upon me for anything within my power to give—except, of course, a resumption of married relations. I kiss your fragrant white hands and salute your fairy fair face.

"SAN PILAR."

Out in the hall, stripped and naked for tomorrow's auction, the gas burned low in gaunt niches, casting unclean shadows, harbingers of decay. The loneliness of the house from which even the servants had fled oppressed little Flora Lee, sent her scuttling for the walnut door of the room that had once been occupied by Grandmother Peake.

Among trunks already packed for departure Margaret was working at a bridge table. She was making paper dolls: first she would sketch an outline on cardboard, daub in little black dots for eyes, little red ones for cheeks, then cut it out and trim her fancy with wide silk skirts, an impertinent hat and pantalettes of lace. Snip-snip, the first figure was done and Margaret perched it on her knee, herself a pretty picture with head to one side and a braid down her back.

"Well, Bunny's given me the bird," Flora Lee announced.

"The what?" Margaret had been thinking of something else.

For reply her sister handed her the letter.

"He dished me up in fine noble language," went on Flora Lee. "No mention of alimony, you'll notice—and I wouldn't take it from his tribe. If he hadn't been a crab he'd have given me my freedom when I wanted it—that week at Tours. Savarac would have married me then. He would have done anything for me that week. He'd have——"

"Flora Lee!" Margaret looked up and her cheeks flushed darker than her sister's. "You wouldn't have married a man like Saravac."

"Wouldn't I? Better women than I have been glad to do much more for Saravac. You don't know what you're talking about, Peg. He could have made me almost a queen. And Bunny wouldn't — what an aggravating animal he could make of himself. And I told him I didn't want a cent of his dirty Spanish money—I'd spit on his old coat of arms——"

Margaret's look checked her excitement, but it brought out the irritated taunt, "Don't come the old maid on me, Peg. I have my own pride."

"I suppose that's it," said Margaret, thoughtfully, and she took up her sewing again.

"I'm sorry, Peg." Her look was wild. "But wasn't this a great day for Bunny's letter to come and make the joy unanimous? Tomorrow we'll be out on the street——" her voice broke.

Margaret reached out a thimbled hand to pat her sister's knee with the assurance, "Give us a chance, honey, and they can't see us for the dust."

"Can't see us for the dirt in that weird five room flat. With a hole they call a kitchenette. And old Linda comin' in by day like a common nigger. She'll take to gin, I know she will. Old Harris has already."

"Oh." Margaret's eyes were pained as she looked up.

"Has he been drinking hard?" she asked softly.

"They found him on Grand avenue singing hymns. One of those Yankee policemen with a sense of humor——"

"Why didn't they send for me?" asked Margaret ruefully.

"Jimmy Wilder went down to the station and bought him off." Upon hearing this Margaret's head bent a little lower over her sewing. Old Harris, who had been perfection's self for thirty years, had lost his pride; and Jimmy Wilder had been the one to befriend him.

In the pause Flora Lee picked up one of the little cardboard images and turned it critically in her fingers.

"Do you actually sell them?" she asked, as if to break the spell.

"Admah Holtz sells them for me," replied Margaret, not looking up.

"The Candy Man!" said Flora Lee.

"I heard you call him that."

This made no impression on Flora Lee, apparently, for she got down from the trunk where she had been sitting, stretched and yawned.

"Peg, have I got to be routed out tomorrow mawnin' when the vans come?"

"Stay abed if you want to." Margaret's voice was a little weary. "The auction doesn't begin until ten."

"Will they send my furniture over to the apartment?"

BOY SCOUTS HOLD WEEK-END CAMPS

Winter Only Adds Variety to Outdoor Activities at Both Camps, Boys Decide Who Attend.

Cold weather has failed to chill the enthusiasm of Lincoln boy scouts for camp life, according to Assistant Scout Executive McDermott. Instead of hampering camp activities, scouts have found that winter only adds variety to the seasonal outings.

The week-end camp six miles south of the city was attended by thirty-five scouts who stayed two to ten days. At the time of going there, roads were blocked with snow, and the majority hiked carrying their provisions. Scouts Cannon Porter and Dwight LaMaster of troop 17 made the trip in approved arctic style, with their dog "Ginger" pulling their loaded sleigh all the way.

The scouts have ample chances to try their woodcraft ability by using the ax, and the wood supply is almost inexhaustible.

Passing the scout tests is a new thing when snow covers the landscape and ice, the streams. Every Friday night and Saturday, scout troops and sout master hike to the camp and Assistant Executive R. D. McDermott is there to help instruct the scouts in woodcraft, campcraft, camp cooking, and also to conduct program around the big fireplace in the evening. For those scouts who remain over for Sunday religious services are conducted.

Camp Quivera at Louisville was not to be slighted during vacation. Scouts La Selle Gilman, John Sanders, troop No. 27, George Gant of troop No. 9 and Camp Chief McDermott spent five days there. They helped in storing away seven and one-half tons of ice. The ice, twelve inches thick, is kept in a large cave near the camp mess-hall. This will mean a big saving to the scout organization next summer, since ice had to be shipped in by express.

The camping committee is already planning on an extensive program for this year, to suit the needs of this popular out-door branch of scouting.

PLEA FOR FORESTS.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., (By mail.)—Not all the ill effects of drought are due to forest depletion. But there is scarcely a locality that suffers from such drought that cannot trace back and find that forest devastation has had something important to do with it, says a statement from the New York state college of forestry at Syracuse, N. Y. It is not difficult to find dry river and creek beds in localities where the streams ran bank full the year around before the forests were removed from the watersheds. The removal of the forests and failure to replace them results in the waste of the water supply. Instead of soaking into the sponge-like reservoir of the forest floor which holds and retards the flow of water, rain runs off quickly and when the dry season comes there is no reserve water in the ground to be gradually let out, because nature's storage reservoir has been destroyed.

DEFECTS IN BANK INSPECTION

NEW YORK, (By mail.)—Too much politics in the selection of officials is brought out as a general weakness in state banking supervision thru an investigation just completed by Frank W. Simmons of the state bank division, American Bankers association. The investigation also sums up desirable features of supervision in many states. "State bank supervision has too often been subjected to partisan entanglements, resulting in lax supervision and dangerous practices," Mr. Simmons said. "Public opinion is today demanding that bank supervision be as free from political interference as the judiciary itself."

IS MILLION DOLLAR FIRE

Chicago Fire Department Officials Probe Reason for Blaze in Hoops Building.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Fire department officials today sought the cause for the fire which yesterday did $1,000,000 damage to the Hoops building near Michigan boulevard, drove hundreds of guests from their beds in the Congress and Auditorium hotels and caused the collapse of a score of firemen.

The Hoops building, of eight stores, is separated only by an alley from the Congress hotel, while right across the street is the Auditorium. The fire roared like a blast furnace. Sparks and thick black smoke were whirled against the hotels. Telephone operators and other attaches worked frantically to reassure the guests, but hundreds fled down the stairs to the lobby where they were herded and calmed.

Most of the building was given over to furniture and antique shops and a music shop.

WHEAT EXPORTS INCREASE.

OTTAWA, Jan. 12.—Exports of wheat from Canada to countries of the world have increased 175,000 bushels since 1914, according to a report issued by the dominion bureau of statistics. Wheat shipment ten years ago amounted to 120,426,579 bushels with a value of $117,719,217, the report shows, while in the year ending October 1, 1924, the dominion exported 294,158,561 bushels of wheat worth $301,666,579. Exports of flour have shown a proportionate gain. Flour mills in Canada number 1864. Of these 133 are situated in the prairie provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta which produce 90 per cent of Canada's wheat crop. Domestic consumption of flour in Canada is only about one-quarter of the estimated capacity of dominion mills.

Lawyers began arriving at Atlanta for the bar meeting.

Joseph Gerspacher has appealed to the supreme court from a finding of the district court of Douglas county that he owes Harry F. Schoen and half a dozen others $9,070. The plaintiffs sued him as the statutory trustee of the Toozer Gerspacher company, a dissolved corporation against whom they had secured a judgment. Gerspacher said that there was a defect in the parties defendant, as when the assets were distributed other stockholders got their share, and that he alone should not be held liable. He claimed also that the judgment was improperly obtained.

State Tax Commissioner Smith has notified county clerks that the supreme court has overruled a motion for a rehearing in a suit affecting the taxation of rolling stock of railroads by cities and villages for local taxation and that this property will be taxed this year the same as it has been in the past. Branch line towns do not get the same valuation per mile as some of the towns on main line roads.

politics have been engaged in the traffic of gaining paroles.

With the inaugurafion of a new governor today, it is recalled that Jonathan M. Davis two years ago rode into office as the "dirt farmer" and was elected on a platform which made severe charges against the dishonesty of state officials.

Prosecutor Veale declared today he had a "perfect chain of evidence against the governor and his son.

The penalty on conviction under the complaint in which the governor and his son are to be charged carries a fine of not less than $200 nor more than $1,000 or imprisonment for not less than one nor more than seven years in the penitentiary at hard labor.

Governor Davis welcomes criminal prosecution as an opportunity to "clear his skirts" of the charges made against him he said today.

"I do not believe there is sufficient evidence to justify the filing of a charge.

"However, it will give me an opportunity to dig into a lot of things that should be exposed. It will be an opportunity for me to clear my name of the stigma that has been attached to it."

The governor expressed the belief that his son Russell had learned a "good lesson" from the expose.

"My son knew I was going to pardon Pollman. He saw an opportunity to make a little on the side in a manner he did not believe to be wrong," the governor said.

ONLY TWO BARBER POLES REMAINED

Street Department Finds Few Violations of the Ordinance Left South of O Street.

Only two barber poles remained south of O street to be removed Monday by a squad of four street department employes sent upon a tour of inspection to see that the city ordinance against sidewalk obstructions is enforced to the letter.

At one shop the pole remained on the sidewalk, supported only by a wire, and was taken down by the proprietor when H. E. Clapp, city sidewalk inspector, arrived. The other pole was more firmly attached, and the man who had been engaged by the proprietor to take the pole away received aid from the city squad in removing it.

"We have a law to enforce, and I propose to enforce it with equal treatment to everybody," declared Commissioner Cowgill. "Half-hearted enforcement of regulations benefits very little."

The city ordinance to which he refers requires that there be no obstructions in a public street in front of the line of buildings, or below a height of eight feet. The "clean up" squad yesterday had instructions to look after any sign violating such regulation.

WOMAN TALKS TO AD CLUB

Women Members in Charge of Program. Decorations and All Arrangements Monday.

Small tables, decked with candles and other ornamentation, were only one sign of the feminine domination at Monday's meeting of Lincoln Ad club. Miss Mette Hansen had charge of arrangements. Miss Marie Wessner presided, and Miss Leola Combs sang. The speaker of the day was Mrs. Jerry Stiles of Omaha, and her subject was "Merchandised Advertising."

"Conducting a department store is only begun when the store is located, stocked and opened," Mrs. Stiles said. "It must have the patronage of the woman buyer, and this has to be gone after. What women demand of a store are courtesy, afir play, and the right merchandise, and the merchandise is the most important. It must be smart and rightly priced. This means stock must be frequently turned and that is where advertising comes in. Proper display of stock is also an aid in moving merchandise that is inclined to be slow, and it must all move if the store is to have fresh, clean, up to date goods all the time. But advertising is the main thing and it must be designed to bring women to the store, often for some special bargain in order that once there, they may be attracted to other merchandise. That is the origin of the 'business getter,' the frequent special offering on some article of common use and general appeal. The successful department store never runs a large ad without at least one of these items."

ASK SUGGESTIONS AS TO NEW DEPOT

Burlington Sends Word to City Planning Group That It Will Not Be Deaf to Ideas Offered.

The Burlington is not going to turn a cold shoulder to suggestions concerning the new depot it expects to build for Lincoln, F. T. Darrow told the city planning subdivision Monday at the chamber of commerce. Definite ideas as to what would be acceptable to the city will receive attention, Mr. Darrow said.

The same speaker presented tentative suggestions for a roadway into Lincoln from the north, by way of the Tenth street viaduct, coming into Tenth street from the west at a point three blocks north of the viaduct, across the Stewart tract recently deeded to the city. Court street is deemed toto narrow for the thorofare desired, and it was suggested that a suitable plot of ground be obtained by the city. Mr. Darrow was made chairman of a committee to study possibilities, together with City Engineer Erickson, Dr. G. E. Condra and R. A. Bickford.

Professor Barbour was made chairman of a committee to investigate salvaging of material from the old capitol, with a particular view to using part of it for park memorials and the like, and on the university campus. Doctor Condra, Mr. Darrow and Dr. B. F. Bailey are other members of this committee.

The vote in the Congregational church Sunday morning was 77 to 18 in favor of the federation, and the vote in the Presbyterian church was unanimous.

REED WILL NOT OPPOSE

HAS NO FIGHT ON CONFIRMATION OF COCHRAN.

Wood of Scottsbluff Offers Bill to Reduce Contract Rate of Interest From 10 to 8 Per Cent.

The senate met at 2 o'clock with a report of the committee on committees before it. Members examined their pockets immediately after the adoption of the list of standing committees and pulled forth a smart gtist of bills which they introduced. There was a tacit understanding that sometime during the afternoon Governor McMullen's code secretaries would be submitted to a joint convention for confirmation, altho some contend the senate alone has confirming power.

Governor McMullen had informed members he would submit his appointees, including T. E. Williams for state tax commissioner, to the senate or two houses in the afternoon. He desires action as soon as convenient to legislators.

It was announced that Senator Perry Reed of Hamilton would not raise objection to Roy Cochran, reappointed secretary of the department of public works. Reed so informed Mr. Cochran Monday.

Senator Wood of Scottsbluff introduced a bill to cut the contract rate of interest from 10 per cent to 8 per cent. He is also desirous of repealing the state hail insurance law. His interest rate bill is intended to apply to his own territory in western Nebraska where interest rates are higher than in territory farther east. Wiltse proposes to increase the tax under the intangible tax law from 25 per cent valuation to 60 per cent valuation basis.

Bills Introduced.

The following bills were introduced in the senate Monday afternoon:

S. F. 1—By Wiltse. Increases intangible tax from 25 to 60 per cent, repeals one mill levy on bonds and warrants of state and governmental sub-divisions.

S. F. 2—By Wiltse. Allows clerk of the district court a $3 fee for swearing witnesses.

S. F. 3—By Wiltse. Give court discretion in the granting of separate trial to persons charged jointly with a felony.

S. F. 4—By Wiltse. No person shall be excused for testifying against another but testimony unless voluntary shall not be used against the person testifying.

S. F. 5—By Wiltse. County courts of Lancaster and Douglas counties not to have jurisdiction in juvenile cases except during absence of district judge or judges.

S. F. 6—By Wiltse. Shooting or stabbing with intent to inflict great bodily injury punishable imprisonment in the penitentiary.

S. F. 7—By Wiltse. Prisoners charged with felony, punishable by three months' imprisonment or one hundred dollar fine or the judge may impose both penalties.

S. F. 8—By Wiltse. In misdemeanor cases where the defendant pleads guilty the county judge may render judgment of the imprisonment not to exceed six months or a fine not to exceed $500 or both.

S. F. 9—By Wiltse. In misdemeanor cases where district and county court have concurrent jurisdiction, where the fine is three months in jail or $100 the court may impose both.

S. F. 10—By Wood. Fire insurance companies of this or other states shall be taxed upon their gross premiums where the property is located, instead of where the agent conducts the business. The agent who conducts the business shall report the gross amount of premiums to the county clerk together with the name and residence of the insured and the amount of premiums received. For violation of this act, the license of any fire insurance company may be revoked by the department of trade and commerce.

S. F. 11—By Wood. Repeals the state hail insurance law.

S. F. 12—By Wood. Increases mill levy limit for municipal purposes from 15 to 18 mills in cities of from five to twenty-five thousand population, in the discretion of the city council, and abolishes five and six mill limit for maintenance of police and fire departments respectively.

S. F. 13—By Wood. Reduces the agreed maximum contract rate of interest from 10 per cent to 8 per cent.

S. F. 14—By McGowan. (Request state volunteer firemen.) Enlarges powers of state fire marshal in fire prevention work where there is no local fire department.

S. F. 15—By McGowan. (Request state volunteer firemen.) Provides that the three-eighths per cent tax on the gross premiums of fire insurance companies shall be appropriated and used exclusively by the department of trade and commerce for fire inspection and fire prevention.

Reed of Hamilton, sole member of the committee on employes has appointed the following for the senate, all of whom are to be paid for six days a week except Harry Bradley who will be paid for seven days a week:

ELECTORS FOR COOLIDGE

Adjourn at 1 O'Clock Without Expressing Themselves Upon a Choice for Messenger.

Nebraska's eight presidential electors met at Governor McMullen's offices in the new capitol Monday at noon, cast their votes for Coolidge and Dawes. He electors decided that nothing could be done until they formulated and signed the proper certificates showing how they stand on president and vice president. This work had not been done in advance, so without proceeding to the election of a messenger the electors adjourned at 1 o'clock for luncheon. They agreed to meet again at 2 o'clock to fill out the numerous certificates and to elect a messenger to carry the glad tidings to Washington. A. R. Humphrey presided as chairman.

A. W. Jefferis of Omaha is a candidate for messenger and has at least one supporter in Mrs. Huuges of Papillion. There is a movement to send one of the three women electors aloug with one of the men members. The federal statute calls for only one messenger. Eight presidential electors went in a body to carry the news to President McKinley's vote from Nebraska. The federal law allows the messenger 25 cents a mile for a one-way trip.

There has been a turn for the better in the cattle industry.

Nebraska Cagers And Kansas Leading in Valley

HUSKERS AT TOP IN THE CAGE RACE

Nebraska Most Formidable Foe of the Jayhawkers, Last Year's Champs—Goodson Leads Huskers in Points.

DES MOIN5S, Ia., Jan. 12.—With Kansas off to a flying start in its quest of a fourth straight championship and Nebraska looming as one of the foremost obstacles in the path of the flying Jayhawks, the Missouri Valley basketball campaign is on again.

Washington alone is untried in the conference, every other Valley quintet having seen action last week. Four of the eight teams turned in victories and four others have a blank percentage record to show for their efforts to date.

Kansas and Nebraska are at the top of the heap. Coach F. C. Allen's squad opened with an invasion of Iowa and returned to Lawrence with the scalps of Grinnell, Ames and Drake. Nebraska turned back the Kansas Aggies as a starter and then downed Coach Hugh McDermott's veteran Oklahoma team, regarded as one of the Valley's bset.

Missouri, like Kansas, selected Iowa as the scene of its initial efforts. The going was none too smooth for the Tigers but Coach George Bond's men held their course until they hit Grinnell, where they were downed by the Pioneers coached by Charley Back, one of "Phog" Allen's proteges who is serving his first year as a coach.

Grinnell made the best showing of the three Iowa teams against Kansas and it is generally believed that the Pioneers will rank high in the conference this season.

One week's play is hardly enough from which to form an estimate of the strength of the Valley teams but Kansas made the best offensive and defensive showing in its opening games. The Jayhawks averaged 33 1-3 points against the three Iowa teams and held their opponents to an average score of 13 1-3 points.

Missouri Man Leads.

Joyner of Missouri, a sophomore, went into the lead in individual scoring with 36 points in his three games last week. Joyner's total includes seventeen field goals and two free throws. Engle and Ackerman of Kansas, Moran of Grinnell, Wheat of Missouri and Peterson of Kansas follow in order, each having score twenty or more points.

Six conference games are scheduled this week. Kansas will play its first home game of the season on Wednesday, against the Kansas Aggies. Drake will entertain Grinnell at Des Moines on Friday while Oklahoma will go to St. Louis for Washington's opening game on the same night.

Three games are scheduled on Saturday. Ames goes to Manhattan to play the Kansas Aggies, Drake travels to Lincoln to battle Nebraska and Oklahoma goes to Columbus for Missouri's first home game of the conference season.

HEAVYWEIGHT WRESTLING CHAMPION

An erstwhile college football player, who tried boxing, but couldn't stand up against the punches and whose knowledge of the technic of grappling is that of a novice, is the new wearer of the world's heavyweight wrestling belt.

He is Wayne (Big) Munn, a youth, who by his prodigious bulk and strength threw off the fearful headlocks of the veteran Ed "Strangler" Lewis and crushed him into submission.

Lewis is in a local hospital, suffering probable injuries to his back, a new experience for the "Strangler," who in his long mat career has seriously hurt many opponents with his famous headlock.

A giant in statute and strength, Munn, despite his meager wrestling strategy, clearly demonstrated his power over the title holder, in the opinion of mat authorities, altho a foul, which resulted in a protest by Lewis' manager, marred the victory.

The championship clash, witnessed by 17,000 howling fans, all of whom seemed to be partisans of the challenger, developed the most tumultuous scene in the turbulent history of wrestling here and brought about a tangle in the interpretation of mat rules.

The climax came after two minutes of wrestling for the second fall, when Munn, twisting free from a headlock, lifted Lewis high in the air, with a body and crotch hold, apparently the only weapon at his command, and, walking to the ropes, hurled the "Strangler" outside on to the uncovered floot of the platform.—P. & A

FROM MINE BOY TO MANAGER

Bucky Harris Tells Story of Life.

Copyright 1925, North American Newspaper Alliance.

This is the seventh installment of the autobiography of Stanley Harris, youngest major league baseball manager in the history of the game and the victorious strategist and one of the outstanding players in the 1924 World Series, in which his Washington club won the pennant for the first time. The rise of Harris from colliery boy to big league manager in eight years is one of the most remarkable life stories America has ever produced.

By Stanley (Buck) Harris.

Once I was stamped as a semi-professional, I looked forward to the day when I would become a full fledged professional. I continued to play with Hamtown on Sundays and holidays. Week days I would get in any scrub game that offered itself after work. I improved some in fielding and batting, thanks to a few pounds added to my meagre weight. I thought I was going great guns. When I look back now, and see myself in my mind's eye, I know what a dub I was. Ignorance is bliss. sure enough.

After a time there was no competition for my job. I was a fixture at shortstop. Consequently I loafed. Tony Walsh noticed my attitude. "You've got to come to life, Stanley, and keep on your toes every minute," he warned. "If you don't, you'll never be any more than a bum player. That's all you are now. Maybe if you keep pegging away you can make something of yourself. But, kid, you can't ever let up. Do you think Warner, Bush and those other topnotchers got where they are by lying down on the job? Nix. Come out of it."

"I'm going all right," I replied. And I thought I was. I didn't know enough to take good advice that was well meant. I was making as much as five dollars extra some weeks by playing ball. That convinced me I was delivering the goods.

Fortunately, Tony's warning was soon driven home in no uncertain way. Hamtown was playing Avoca. I had one of those days where I couldn't do anything right. I bobbled a couple of easy chances, chipped in two wild throws, loafed going down to first base on an infield poke that the third baseman messed about, and was thrown out when I should have been safe. Later I was caught asleep off first following a single.

That was the first time I heard a crowd yell: "Take him out." I've listened to it since and played all the harder. But it hurt then and my feelings weren't eased when I was unceremoniously benched. I went home disgusted and discouraged. There was no pay for me that Sunday.

"You Were Rotten!"

Tony Walsh met me as I was coming from the mine, my mind pretty well made up that I was thru with baseball.

"What's eating you, eh?" he greeted me. "You look as if you were going to do a Brodie in some pond."

I told him of the "riding" I had had from the fans and that it was unjustified.

"Bunk!" he snorted, expectorating a mouthful of tobacco juice. "You were rotten, Stanley. You didn't get all that was coming to you. Baseball's like everything else in this world. You've got to deliver the goods or get bawled out. And you've got to give your best if you want to land any place. Hustle! That's the stuff! On your old toes and head up all the time!"

I was only a kid, and a sensitive one, for all my contact with the rough and ready mine crowd of those days. I shifted from foot to foot as I realized the truth of Tony's remarks. I wasn't far from tears. The jeers of that small crowd were still eating under my skin.

Tony slapped me on the back encouragingly. "Forget it! Forget it!" he ordered. "Those birds who toss you in the grease one day will be yelling their fool heads off for you the next. Don't ever let 'em get your goat, or you are done as a ball player. If you blow a play, bob up next time with a good one. Then you'll hear 'em cheer. The world's always with the guy who comes across."

He took me to the ball field and calmed me down by making me work hard fielding grounders. The next Sunday I was back on my job at shortstop for Hamtown and got a big hand when I hit the first ball pitched to center field for two bases. I knew then that Tony was right in his advice. From that day on I've never been worried by the jeers of a baseball crowd. They always hurt, but they make me hustle all the more to make amends for a bad play.

Trips That Cost Pennies.

The same holds true for practically all big leaguers. Now and then a player forgets himself in the heat of a hard fought game and takes issue with a particularly insulting spectator. When this happens there is generally some justification for the player. He knows better than anyone in the stands when he has pulled a "boner" or made a really bad play. And he feels worse about it than the most rabid rooter for the home club. He is out there trying to win a game, not lose. It is unfortunate if his temper gets the better of him and he tries to take it out on a fan after a barrage of insults. Ball players are only human. Sometimes there is a limit to endurance. For the greater part the few biting insults go in one ear and out the other. I am not holding a brief for the player, who attacks a fan. He has his side of the case, however. It isn't always the weaker.

Before the weather became too cold to play longer I realized I had profited by Tony Walsh's lessons. Several times that season I went to Scranton and Wilkesbarre to see New York State league games. In order to do so I had to save nickels and dimes weeks in advance. Each trip meant a couple of dollars spent. A few dollars was a world of money then.

I saw Monte Cross perform twice that year. I knew him as a star shortstop who had played with Connie Mack's champion athletics. Each time I went back home wondering what made me think I ever could hope to be a big league shortstop.

Tomorrow. Basetall in a hard School.

KANSAS TO HAVE A STRONG TEAM

Jayhawkers to Send Better String of Men to K. C. A. C. Indoor Meet Than Last Year.

LAWRENCE, Kas., Jan. 12.—When the annual Kansas City Athletic club indoor track meet opens the season in the middle west February 7, Coach Karl Schlademan of the University of Kansas will be ready with a strong team of Jayhawkers for performance on the boards. Not that K. U. has a world beating track team in prospect, but beyond doubt the Kansans will be considerably stronger this year than last and seem pointed toward a season of average success.

Seven letter men, each good in a separate event and some of them in two events, form the nucleus of the squad, with Capt. Merwin Graham, broad jumper and hurdler, and Tom Poor, Missouri Valley high jump champion, both of whom were members of the United States Olympic team last summer, two stars of Class A ability.

New material is fairly plentiful at K. U. and some fifty men are working out daily despite the cold weather as much work can be done under the Memorial stadium structure. An early season estimate of the material shows that Kansas will be strong in the jumps, dashes and middle distances, fair in the polevault and distance runs, and weak in the weights and hurdles.

The Kansas letter men other than Graham and Poor are Fisher, sprinter and quarter miler; Watson, middle distances; Goodell, pole vault and broad jump; Grady and Pratt, distances.

The K. U. sprinters now appearing as loading candidates are Fisher, Isett, Wong Wai, Mark, and Harold Smith. Wong Wai was champion of Hawaii in the dashes two years ago and is more than an average sprinter. He is of Chinese parentage born in Hawaii. Isett and H. Smith, both are football men and sophomores who show promise of much speed.

There is a real array of quarter milers and half milers ready for action, both indoors and out. Their numbers insures another strong mile relay team for the dual meets and the Illinois, Kansas and Drake relay games. The middle distance men are Fisher, Watson and Rooney from last year's squad, and McNeal, McAdow, Powers, Lindley and Mark, all of whom are entering their first year of varsity competition.

Distance men include the veterans Grady and Pratt, backed up by Ernst, Langford and Bell. These men get the major share of duty in the indoor season, but there are several candidates now working out who give promise of developing well by the time of the outdoor meets.

The pole vault is falling to Goodell, two-letter man who does about 12 feet, and Phillips and Phinney, two new men who should reach 12 feet or better accordng to present form.

Poor and Bird, a sophomore, are the only two men for the high jump who have proven their ability. Poor has never been defeated in his event in America since starting varsity competition and won fourth place in the Olympic finals in Paris this summer.

Captain Graham is a sure point winner in the broad jump and is also the leading man in the hurdles so far as material now on hand has shown up. Other broad jumpers are Goodell, Isett and Bird, while other hurdlers are W. Anderson, last year's squad man; Eagle, Bird and Dornboss.

McGee is the most promising shot putter and he is having the lead ball about 40 feet at present. He was eligible for varsity competition last season but an injured knee kept him out. Other weight men are Connelley of last year's squad, C. Kennedy and O. Willis. All must increase their present records considerably to rate as sure point winners.

When the outdoor season rolls around some good javiln prospects will be ready for duty. These include Roberds, Marsh Smith, H. Baker and Clyde Freese. Smith was discovered in an interorganization meet this fall when he threw the javelin 160 feet the first time he ever tossed the pointed shaft.

WEIR TALKS TO Y DORMITORY CLASS

Husker Captain Reviews Prospects for Coming Season—Comments On Notre Dame Team.

"There has never been a time in Husker history when the prospects for a team appeared brighter than they do for the coming season," Ed Weir, Husker captain and all American tackle declared before a large group of men at the Sunday morning breakfast at the Y. M. C. A.

After reviewing the various positions Weir intimated that there would be a larger opening for end candidates than for any other position on the squad.

"What about the Notre Dame game next year?" was next put up to the Husker leader.

"Oh we had that all decided before the final whistle blew this fall," he retorted. "I want to say that Notre Dame has a wonderful team. I never hope to see its equal. They have eleven men playing football all the time. I will never forget a typical incident in the game that impressed me very much. I was running down under a punt, when suddenly I found myself spilled. But that wasn't all. I had to pick myself up three times afterwards in the same play. The fourth time, I just laid there."

"Every play is made for a touchdown. It is this kind of playing that gives the backs their opportunities. It is due to the height of proficiency that Rockne has worked up in his men that the team now holds the position it does."

Weir was then asked the value of football to the individual, to which he replied that in his estimation it was not altogether from a physical standpoint that football benefits a player—"not so much his physical make-up as his temperament," was the way he put it. "Lots of fellows fail who could do much better. They are always doing something to make someone lay them aside. Football is a game that makes one learn to take and give in the right way. I just wish that I could tell it to you in the way that I feel it, but that is impossible. It seems to me that it can do so much for a person.

"Everyone is very interested, now, about the coach. This man West has shown a great deal of promise. From his record we see that he has been very successful. Bearge, from Illinois is good. Both are young fellows. The committee must get a young man so that they can keep him. For myself, I would like to see them get a young fellow from outside."

TAYLOR NOT TO BOX.

George "Kid" Taylor, Philadelphia, will not meet Frankie Larabee in the ring at the city auditorium Tuesday night. Report comes from Omaha that Taylor is ill. Sammy Cross, 126 pounds, of Omaha, a tough proposition, has been put in Taylor's place to meet Larabee in one of the main events. Cross and Larabee tip the scales at the same figure and the bout should be a hard one.

BUSINESS IN MAJOR LEAGUE BENEFITTED

That Is the Opinion of Baseball Men on the Result of the Publication of Landis Testimony.

BY HENRY L. FARRELL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Business in the major leagues ought to be helped this year by publication of testimony taken in the Dolan-O'Connell scandal, in opinion of smart baseball men.

Text of the testimony failed to show the existence of a master-mind, or a gambling ring in the plot and did not bear out suspicion that Dolan and O'Connell did not originate the idea.

"With the fans taken completely into confidence of baseball heads and with the prospect for another fine pennant race this year, I believe that baseball will have another big year," John A. Heydler, president of the National league said today.

Heydler believes that four teams —New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati will be in the race for the pennant from start to finish.

"The Giants" he said, "have been rebuilt into practically a new team. Terry, Frisch, Jackson and Lindstrom are the makings of one of the youngest infields that ever played in the league and Wilson is a most promising young outfielder.

"The Pirates and Cubs were both improved by trade between them and the Reds have a formidable team that didn't live up to expectations last year because of bad luck and injuries."

Heydler believes that among the young players coming up this year some stars as good as those developed last season, will be discovered. Bell, of the St. Louis Cardinals; Dressen of the Cincinnati Reds and Welch of the Boston Braves are among the most promising, he said.

"We had an unusual number of star players developed last year," Heydler said. "Pittsburgh had the best luck in finding Wright, Cuyler, Moore and Yde. The Reds got a fine youngster in Critz. The Giants brought out Terry, Jackson, Lindstrom and Wilson. Brooklyn was helped by Brown's comeback and by the fine work of a number of veterans."

More About Cramer Brothers Cage Team

CHESTER, Neb., Jan. 12.—This town boasts of a crack basketball team of brothers, with enough for two substitute players. The team calls themselves the Cramer brothers' basketball team. There are seven of them, sons of the late Joe G. Cramer, pioneer merchant and grain dealer of Chester, and they range from Lee, 22 years old to Harold, 13 years old. They have won several games this season, among them being a triumph over Chester high school here during the holidays, the high school team considering themselves hard to beat. The names of the brothers are Lee, attending Nebraska university, George, filling station manager of Chester; Max, grain dealer, Chester; Don, at the Fraklin Press Printing company, Lincoln; Wallace and Harold in the Chester schools.

Southern Wrestling Trip Is Called Off

The southern trip planned for the Nebraska wrestling squad has been postponed on account of near ineligibility of some of the mat men. Nebraska had planned to meet the University of Oklahoma, Oklahoma A. & M. and the University of Texas this week. Some of the mat men's grades are too near the line and the executive dean decided that it was best to call off the matches. The home meet will be held Thursday. The mat men may meet the University of Indiana on February 23 at Bloomington. The Huskers will be in Iowa City on February 21 and may slip across to Indiana for a match.

REJUVENATION OF THE RED SOX TEAM

Attempt Being Made by Manager to Inject Some New Life Into Last Year's Tail Enders.

BY FOSTER EATON

(Copyright, 1925, by United Press.)

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 12.—The Red Sox baseball team, which with the possible exception of the Braves, provides more laughs per annum, than Will Rogers and Andy Gump combined, is undergoing something in the way of a monkey gland operation, calculated to inject new life into an aggregation that thinks the idea of the game is to finish in eighth place.

Just now its as impossible to forecast the probable line-up as it is to estimate the number of bats Babe Ruth will break in trying to break his batting record.

But some things are certain, and among them, the fact that, as in the case of that weaker sister, the Braves, veteran players must warm benches or go elsewhere while rookies from the colleges and minors try to convince a skeptical public that the Red Sox really should be taken seriously.

Youth must be served and the once famous old timers who made their debut when the catcher was the only player who wore a glove, must not be surprised if they receive eviction notices.

This is to be a year of rejuvenation both for the Sox and the Braves.

Bobby Quinn, chief mogual of Boston's American League club, said today he had thirty-five players on the roster and that the average age was only twenty-four.

Manager Lee Fohl will take his wigwams and warriors to New Orleans March 1 for spring training. The present outlook indicates that Jack Heving and Val Picinich will divide backstop work. But it is perfectly possible that A. J. Stokes, who hails from Mobile, will have a hand in the catching mitt.

Twelve gentlemen who throw a baseball in the conventional fashion, and four who employ their left hand in this maneuver, will comprise the pitching staff. Right handers include Ehmke, Quinn, Fullerton, Ferguson, Woods, Murray, Piercey, Ruffing Kallio, Lucey, Wingfield and Kiefer.

Kallio comes from the Pacific Coast League; Wingfield from Chattanooga and Kiefer from Bay City, Mich. All are promising rookies.

Fuhr and Ross are the veteran southpaws and Wiltse and Jamerson are the newcomers in this class.

Phil Todt seems likely to call first base "home" this season. Bill Wambsganss, who once made a triple play unassisted, probably will start at second, though nineteen year old Bill Rogell may give the older Bill a lot of competition.

Young Prothero, purchased from Washington, is expected to start at third, while Dudley Lee, Geygan, and Gross will fight it out for the shortstop position. Ira Flagstead, Ike Boone and Dennis Williams are the probable outfielders.

CRETE HIGH LOOMS STRONG IN STATE

Coach Klein's Men Step to Front With String of Wins—Beatrice Looks Good—Tech Takes Easy Victory.

Crete high's goal tossing sharks with their wins over Lincoln, York, and Havelock, in rapid succession, looks like the best bet in state cage circles if early season dope runs true to form.

Coach Klein's men, headed by the lengthy Kersenbrock and the clever Vastaka have been disposing of everything that comes their way. Klein, a former Cotner university and Beatrice high school star, has built his team around Harry Kersenbrock, 6 foot, 10 1-2 inch center. When the big boy is covered, Vastaka comes to the rescue with some of his snappy flips from the sidelines. The Saline county quintet is well balanced and works especially well on a small court.

Omaha Tech scored an easy win over North high, 46 to 3, while Central walloped Abraham Lincoln of Council Bluffs, 31 to 18. Creighton Prep, 1924 state champions, trimmed South Omaha, 19 to 11, in a rough battle.

Beatrice nosed out Coach Browne's Lincoln high tossers, 22 to 21, in a forty minute thriller on the Whittier floor here Saturday night. Worley and Johannes starred for the Orangemen while Weyand and Witte were the outstanding performers on the Capital City quint.

Dunbar, Class C champs, copped a 35 to 10 victory over Weeping Water and Belvidere humbled Bruning 39 to 2. Fremont had a close call with Ernie Hubka's York clan winning by a 16 to 12 count. Schroeder's Ravenna flippers were one point better than Broken Bow while Ansley high succeeded in doubling the number of tallies on Sargent. The final score was 10 to 5.

The Genoa Indian tribe looked good against Central City in their 35 to 10 win but the Walthill outfit bowed to Winnebago 18 to 15. "Bunny" Hare's University Place quint came to life with an 18 to 15 victory over Mr. Cunningham and Co. of Wahoo. The suburbanites also have a 9 to 8 win over the Aggie five to their credit in last week's activity.

Bennet gave Otoe a 19 to 3 drubbing and Clarkson, Class F champions last year, defeated Schuyler, 20 to 15.

College View walloped Ashland 15 to 9, Clay Center nosed out Harvard 13 to 12, Farnam trimmed Cambridge 21 to 8, Norfolk won from Newman Grove 19 to 10, Hastings bumped Fremont 24 to 21 in the other important games of the week. Next week's schedule:

New York—With one victory each and no defeats, Princeton and Dartmouth are tied for the lead in the eastern inter-collegiate basketball league. Baldwin, Columbia, leads in individual scoring with 16 points. Sulsman, Yale, is second with 11 points and Kneass, Pennsylvania tied with 10.

High School Athletics.

Ravenna—Ravenna defeated Coach Willard's speedy basketball artists by a score of 17 to 16 at Broken Bow. Ravenna will meet Broken Bow at Ravenna February 13.

Harvard—Members of recent high school basketball teams have formed an alumni club and are scheduling games with amateur teams of equal standing such as "Y" teams, church clubs and some town teams, according to Clinton Curtis, manager, who is seeking matches. The squad, which works out in the local high school gymnasium is composed of some of the best men produced at the local schools.

Bridgeport—Harry Simmons of Scottsbluff, a senior in the high school, has just received a fine silver medal for being placed second in the cross country run contest of high school boys from all over the state, last year. He made the distance of two miles in 10:22. The medal carries his name engraved on one side, with the letters, "C. C." and the time, while on the other side is an outline map of Nebraska.

Humboldt—The doubleheader basketball game between the Dawson high school and Humboldt high school teams resulted in a victory for the Humboldt girls, 43 to 10. The Dawson boys' team won 18 to 15.

Franklin—The Franklin high school basketball teams split honors with the Hildreth high school on the home floor when the Franklin girls defeated the Hildreth girls by a decisive score of 54 to 13, and the boys were defeated by a score of 17 to 12. The Franklin lineups were. Boys—Ray Sargent and Noble Dependehner, center; Gerald Thomas (captain) an Carlos Cochrane, forwards; Frank Osterbuhr and Ross Bonham, guards. Arthur Fruhling, Franklin's star center, was out of the game on account of a recent attack of appendicitis. Girls—Cora Miller, center; Gertrude Thomas (captain), Marjorie Bloedorn and Esther Burton, forwards; Velma Greenleaf, running center; Irma Joy and Martha Buerkle, guards.

This and That in the World of Sport

Wayne Munn, former University of Nebraska football star, present world's heavyweight wrestling champion, has announced that he will defend his title against all comers. "Big" is very well known here and was always popular with the fans in his grid days. Munn has agreed to meet Stecher, Hanson or anyone and has left things in the hands of a Kansas City promoter. He will wrestle again sometime this month.

"Cab" Ellis, former Beatrice star, who will be eligible for the 1926 Nebraska football team, is also quite a basketball player. Ellis played center on the Orange and Black team for three years. The former Orangeman will be able to report for basketball next season in the second semester but must wait until the following term to resume his football activities.

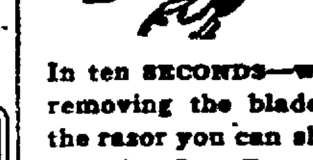

"Lloyd Hahn, Ray's Nemesis" is the title over the famous Nebraska sprinter's photo in Collyer's Year Book just off the press. Hahn, a Falls City athlete, recently competed in a special race with Paavo Nurmi, famous Finnish runner, finishing third. Collyer's review of the year's activity is most complete covering football, baseball, track, horse racing and all other branches of sport. The names of Johnny Kellogg and Dale Skinner, University of Nebraska wrestlers, appear under the section of intercollegiate western wrestling champions.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Divided action featured opening of business on the board of trade today.

Bullish feeling over the world's economic situation brought a moderate wave of buying in wheat.

Mixed sentiment was responsible for the relatively steady opening in corn.

Spot cash took a fractional jump on a decrease in the week's shipments. Futures lost ground due to lack of interest.

Provisions held steady altho hogs and cables were higher.

Grain Market Opinions.

Liverpool. March, ⅝c lower; May, ¾c lower, corn, ¼c lower.

Hulburd Warren: We are very bullish on bread grains.

Bartlett Frazier: We don't believe foreign buyers will follow our advance in wheat and advise caution on the long side. Corn is technically very weak.

Clement Curtis. Much of the buying Saturday was by a house that had previously sold.

Stein Alstein: We believe strength in the domestic cash situation will offset any lull in export buying.

Thomson McKinnon: There is nothing to suggest any weakness in wheat. Coarse grains have no individual strength.

Chicago Tribune. Apparently wheat values have been established around the $1.80 level. Those who have been right on the market believe prices will go irregularly higher and that purchases should be made on the breaks. The important development is the improved milling demand, both domestic and foreign. Sentiment in corn is mixed. A number of longs have saold out and feel bearish, while several strong speculators who believe corn is worth more money are buying on all sharp declines. Low grade corn is selling at the greatest discount on the crop, owing to scarcity of storage room. Shippers will have to buy from farmers at a wider discount to get out even. Consumption has beaten the bulls in oats so far but a better market is expected later. It is said all the low priced rye has been cleaned up. Export buying has improved and rye is regarded as having worked into a stronger position. Packers are making all the lard possible to sell to speculators and carriers. The foreign demand is slow but large consignments are being made abroad.—Lamson.

Wall Street Journal Review.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Such a noteworthy expansion in United States Steel's unfilled orders as took place in December has invariably proved the signal for quickened pace in general business recovery. Wall street did not have the figures until after Saturday's close so the whole country had equal opportunity with the financial district to consider the significance of the tonnage report over the week end. Its response was reflected in a buoyant tone in the general list at the market's opening today. Steel opened with a block of 1200 shares at 124½ within quarter point of its best post-war price while independent steels were also in urgent demand, Crucible advancing fractionally to 76½ and Bethlehem to 52.

Opening prices included: Maxwell A. 80⅞ up ½; Southern Railway 81¼ up ⅝; American Smelting 97¼ up ¼; Dupont 143 up ¾; Reading 79½ up ¼; Union Pacific 151½ off ½; General Electric 302⅞ off ⅛; Studebaker Corp. 45¼ up ¼; U. HEAR OBJECTIONS TO ASSESSMENTS

The City Council Sits as a Board to Equalize the Cost of Sixteen Public Improvements.

The city commission, sitting as a board to equalize assessments in connection with the sixteen public improvement projects of 1924 aggregating more than $200,000, heard complaints on two projects Monday morning. The commission will meet again as a board of equalization Tuesday at 10 a. m., to hear any further appeals to be made by property owners in the benefit districts. Action on the assessment resolutions is scheduled to be voted at noon Tuesday.

About fifty property owners attended the hearing Monday. Some presented objections to the proposed assessments on immediate property to pay one-quarter of the cost of the pavement under the Missouri Pacific viaduct on Thirty-fifth street. The city is to pay one quarter, the railroad one-half, and the immediate property one-quarter of the cost under the present arrangement. Others objected to the arrangement for paying for the storm sewer at Forty-fourth and Randolph, where the cost of $1,500 is paid, half by the owners of property in Turner's addition adjoining, and half by the promoter of the addition. More will probably be heard on both these cases Tuesday.

The list of improvements affected by the assessment resolutions under consideration are:

Men and Things

We strongly sympathize with the declaration of Jay E. House that if a man has nothing more to his credit than that he was an ardent advocate of free speech, he doesn't leave much of a monument. Every agitation that has risen in this country in recent years over free speech has been due to the fact that somebody or some crowd has been guilty of boldly turning the guarantee of freedom into the practice of license. The men who cry the loudest, we have noted, are those who sympathize with the cause the violators have been championing. The ordinary citizen has no trouble freely speaking his mind. Nobody else has either unless they forget that the constitution says that every man is responsible for its abuse.

The difficulties of law enforcement in Douglas county may be better understood by reading recent court proceedings there, where one deputy sheriff had another arrseted for slugging him. The man who did the slugging said that the other deputy had made an unauthorized raid on a place where he was found as a visitor, and that he told him then and there that he was getting even for the slugger telling the sheriff that he was taking money from bootleggers. No liquor was found in the place raided, and the slugging took place when the raider was telling the sheriff about it.

A bill has been introduced in the senate to raise postal rates to the point where the department should be self-sustaining. That sounds reasonable. Whatever deficit occurs in the operations of the postoffice department must be made good out of the pockets of the general taxpayers. It is much fairer that those who use the department should pay its expenses in the proportion in which they employ it for their personal ends. Otherwise it is a subsidy at the expense of everybody, and subsidies are obnoxious. The government has had sufficient experience to know just where the increases should be made and what effect they will have upon mail traffic. The whole problem could be solved by cutting out free postage. That being impossible let the costs be equitably distributed.

The unanimous way in which the state association of county boards sat down upon the proposition of the good roads association to spend half of the proposed gasoline tax on state highways presages a warm fight in the legislature over the proposition. The counties insist that the local boards have the direction and expenditure of all gasoline taxes raised in them. This would seem to make nugatory all plans for a development of the road system by a state commission, since if it has no control over expenditures it can do nothing along that line. The argument is that a state commission would develop tourist highways, and neglect roads needed by farmers. It is suspected that a strong reason was that it takes away from county boards a power all officials like to exercise, that of spending public money.

A reader drops us a line to inquire why it is necessary to hold so many congressional investigations and suggests that if the government desires to know the facts about matters such as the alleged power trust it could get more information in much less time by sending out trained men equipped with the same power to compel answers as a committee of congress possesses. My dear boy, where have you been for the past fifty years? The primary object of a congressional investigation is to add political prestige to a party, a group or an individual by getting something on somebody else and then trying to fasten it onto his party. It will be recalled that the congressional investigation business was running at full tide during the campaign. Nobody has heard anything about them since the election. There is a reason.

DAILY LESSONS IN ENGLISH.

By W. L. Gordon

Words often misused: Who and whom. Don't say "who do you mean?" or "who is the gift for?" Say "whom do you mean?" and "for whom is the gift?"

Often mispronounced: Radiator. Pronounce the first a as in say, and not as in sat. Accent the first syllable.

Synonyms: Summit, top, apex, vertex, zenith, pinnacle, acme, height, climax, culmination.

Word Study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Today's word: Injunction; urgent command. "Hhis constant injunction to the students was to study."

BRAIN TESTS

(By Sam Loyd.)

7 Minutes to Answer This.

Five clever newsboys formed a partnership and pooled their issues to lay in a good stock of papers, which they rattled off like hot cakes, and then figured up their accounts as follows: Tom Smith sold one paper more than one-quarter of the whole lot, while Billy Jones disposed of one paper more than one-quarter of the remainder. Ned Smith sold one paper more than one-quaretr of what was left, and Charley Jones disposed of one paper more than one-quarter of the remanider. At this stage of the game the Smiths were ahead 100 papers, but little Jimmy Jones sold all that was left, so in this friendly encounter the Joneses won out—by how many papers do you think?

MAKING CHEERFUL SPOT OF LIVING-ROOM WINDOW

By MARIAN MOORE

There used to be the fad years ago of keeping the house dark as a morgue. Rooms had to be filled with dark, heavy furniture and be decorated with gloomy wall treatment and hangings. The housewife who allowed any sun to creep in through the windows was frowned upon as being plebeian, rather common, as it were. It's easy to picture the difference which now exists—all the sunshine possible must come in, for sunshine and fresh air mean a healthy home with a healthy family. It's just as easy too, to achieve a sunshiny living room that is an attraction to everyone, including the children, who will love and remember it.

What one housewife accomplished with a small grouping of furniture around her sunny window is shown here. As she wanted to begin with her furniture, she chose some wicker pieces of grayish-brown, so that they would harmonize with her mahogany pieces, and she had the chair covered in a cool cretonne with greenish-blue the predominating tone. The gay draperies were of the same material, while the glass curtains were of thin gauze to allow every ray of sunshine to shine with its full value.

With ferns and a smart singing canary in the combination fernery and bird cage, the effect of a miniature conservatory is created for the pleasure of the family whose pocketbook does not permit it to enjoy a real winter conservatory, but who are glad enough to bring in a little of the summer outdoors.
